MATERIAL CHANGES

Since Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated (“Stifel” or the “firm”)’s last update in March 2016, the firm has experienced the following changes which may be considered material:

- We have standardized our fee schedules for the Advisory Programs covered in this brochure. Each Client pays a maximum Stifel Advisory Fee of 2.5%, as defined in the Section below titled “Fees and Compensation.” Clients should note, however, that the Stifel Advisory Fee does not include any specific product fees, including fees that may be charged by third-party investment advisers with which clients may elect to invest through Stifel’s Advisory platform. These changes will NOT result in fee increases to existing accounts. Information on fees may be found in the section “Fees and Compensation” starting on page 6 of the brochure.
- We added disclosures to the section “Additional Information on Fees and Other Compensation – Interest and Similar Compensation,” starting on page 9 of the brochure, we added information about the compensation that we may receive from our affiliated bank with respect to credit line loans (also known as SPA Loans) that clients may take out at the affiliated bank, collateralized by the assets held in their Stifel advisory accounts. Similarly, we added disclosures about compensation we may earn with respect to un-invested cash in client accounts prior to such cash being automatically swept to the client-selected vehicle.
- We have updated the section “Disciplinary Information” beginning on page 14 of the brochure with respect to the following events:
 - On January 4, 2017, an Administrative Consent Order (“Order”) was entered against Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Inc. (“Stifel Nicolaus”) and a former registered representative associated with Stifel Nicolaus by the Securities Division of the Mississippi Secretary of State (“Division”) resolving an investigation into certain activities occurring in two branch offices during the period of September 2000 through November 2013. Without admitting or denying the findings in the Order, Stifel Nicolaus agreed to the entry of the Order directing Stifel Nicolaus to cease and desist from violating Rule 5.15 of the Mississippi Securities Act of 2010, a books and records rule, and to pay the Division $49,500 on its behalf as well as $500 on behalf of the former registered representative.
 - On December 6, 2016, a final judgment (“Judgment”) was entered against Stifel by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin (Civil Action No. 2:11-cv-00755) resolving a civil lawsuit filed by the SEC in 2011 involving violations of several antifraud provisions of the federal securities laws in connection with the sale of synthetic collateralized debt obligations (“CDOs”) to five Wisconsin school districts in 2006. As a result of the Order, Stifel is required to cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and any future violations of Section 17(a)(2) and 17(a)(3) of the Securities Act, and Stifel and a former employee are jointly liable to pay disgorgement and prejudgment interest of $2.44 million. Stifel was also required to pay a civil penalty of $22.5 million. The Judgment also required Stifel to distribute $12.5 million of the ordered disgorgement and civil penalty to the school districts involved in this matter.
 - On April 8, 2016, Stifel entered into an Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent with FINRA to settle allegations that the firm used permissible customer-owned securities as collateral for bank loans procured by the firm. However, on several occasions over a period of years, prior to performing its customer reserve calculation, Stifel substituted those loans with loans secured with firm-owned collateral. The substitution thereby reduced the amount that Stifel was required to deposit into the Customer Reserve Account. FINRA found the practice to be a violation of applicable rules, including Section 15(c) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 15c3-3(e)(2) thereunder. Throughout the relevant period, the firm had sufficient resources to fund the Customer Reserve Account even if the substitutions had not occurred. While not admitting or denying the allegations, the firm consented to a censure and fine of $750,000.

- Effective June 30, 2016, Stifel delegated day-to-day portfolio management responsibility over the Select Funds Program to its affiliate, 1919 Investment Counsel LLC (“1919ic”). 1919ic exercises investment discretion and makes all portfolio management decisions for the Select Funds Program, subject to oversight by Stifel.
- In July 2016, our affiliated trust companies consolidated into two remaining entities; as a result, we deleted references to 1919 Investment Counsel & Trust Co. and the Trust Company of Sterne Agee Inc. from the section “Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations,” starting on page 19 of the brochure.

In addition to the foregoing, we made various other edits to the brochure. To the extent not otherwise provided, clients may request a copy of the entire brochure from their Financial Advisor at any time, at no charge.

In lieu of providing clients with an updated Part 2A Brochure each year, we generally will provide our existing advisory clients with this summary describing the material changes occurring since the last update that was sent to all advisory clients. We will deliver the summary each year to existing clients generally by April 30 of each year. Clients wishing to receive a complete copy of our then-current Brochure may request a copy at no charge by contacting their Financial Advisor.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

About Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated

Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Incorporated (“Stifel”) is a broker dealer and investment adviser registered with the SEC since May 7, 1975. Stifel is owned by Stifel Financial Corp., a publicly held company whose common stock trades under the symbol “SF.” Stifel is a leading full-service wealth management, investment advisory (“Advisory”), and investment banking firm, serving investment and capital needs of individual, corporate, institutional, and municipal clients. Stifel is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”), the New York, American, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Chicago Board Options Exchanges, and the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (“SIPC”). Information about our qualifications, business practices, portfolio management techniques, and affiliates is accessible via publicly available filings with the SEC at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.

In this brochure, the pronouns “we,” “our,” “us” and similar words will refer to Stifel. The pronouns “you,” “your,” and similar words will refer to you as the Client.

Our parent company, Stifel Financial Corp., acquired Sterne Agee Group, Inc. on or around June 1, 2015, including the assets and liabilities of its subsidiaries, Sterne Agee Asset Management, Inc., an SEC-registered investment adviser (“SAAM”), and the brokerage business of Sterne, Agee & Leach, Inc. (“SALI”), an SEC-registered broker-dealer and a member of FINRA. Substantially all of SALI’s brokerage business and a portion of SAAM’s investment advisory business, including the Select Programs covered in this brochure, transferred to Stifel.

Services We Provide

Stifel offers both Advisory and brokerage services. For more information about our brokerage business, please refer to the “Brokerage Practices” section of this brochure. It is important to understand that brokerage services are separate and distinct from Advisory services, and different laws, standards of care and separate contracts with clients govern each. While there are similarities among brokerage and Advisory services, our firm’s contractual relationship with and legal duties to clients are subject to a number of important differences depending on whether we are acting in a brokerage or Advisory capacity.

ADVISORY BUSINESS

Types of Advisory Services Offered by Stifel

Our services include discretionary and non-discretionary Advisory services, which generally involve account and/or portfolio management, financial planning services, and recommendation of, or assistance with the selection of, securities and/or third-party investment advisers (“Advisers”). Such advisers may include firms that are independent of our firm (“Independent Advisers”) as well as firms owned by our parent company, Stifel Financial Corp. (“Affiliated Advisers”). We enter into written agreements with Advisory clients acknowledging our Advisory relationship and disclosing our obligations when acting in an Advisory capacity. We provide Advisory services to individuals, corporations, institutions, pension or profit sharing plans, employee benefit plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, other business and government entities, educational institutions, and banks or thrift institutions (“Clients”). We generally provide Advisory services through our registered investment advisory representatives (“Financial Advisors”), who determine the services that are most appropriate for Clients based on each Client’s individual investment goals and financial circumstances. We may fulfill a Client’s wealth management needs by acting as broker-dealer, investment adviser, or both. Our Advisory services cover most types of debt and equity (or equity-related) securities of domestic and foreign companies, as well as national and local government issuers, whether trading on an exchange or over-the-counter. We may also invest Client assets in rights and warrants, options, certificates of deposit, open and closed-end funds, exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”), unit investment trusts (“UITs”), real estate investment trusts (“REITs”), American Depositary Receipts (“ADRs”), foreign ordinary shares, publicly traded master limited partnerships (“MLPs”) and other securities.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2015, we managed approximately $26,528,379,300 of Client assets on a discretionary basis, and advised on $11,873,044,136 on a non-discretionary basis. We also advised Clients with respect to an additional $2,513,462,622 managed by other Advisers.

Our Responsibilities as an Investment Adviser

As an investment adviser, we are acting as a fiduciary and held to the legal standards set forth in the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the “Advisers Act”), state securities laws, and common law standards applicable to fiduciaries. Such standards include, but are not limited to the duty to serve the best interests of Clients, the obligation to place Clients’ interests before our own, full disclosure of material and potential conflicts of interest, full disclosure of all compensation received from Clients or third parties for providing investment advice or advisory services to our Clients, and having a reasonable basis for believing that our investment recommendations are suitable and consistent with Client’s objectives and goals, including any restrictions placed on the account. Additional information about our fiduciary obligations, including some of the policies and procedures that we undertake to fulfill those obligations, is available throughout this brochure, including under the section entitled “Participation or Interest in Client Transactions.”

Investment Restrictions

Subject to our review for reasonableness, Clients may impose restrictions on investing in specific securities or certain types of securities. If we determine that the restrictions are reasonable and accept them, we and/or any portfolio manager managing Client’s account will be responsible for implementing, and managing the account consistent with, the restrictions imposed by Client. It is important for Clients to understand that, if the restrictions are approved and imposed on an account, the performance of the account may differ (even significantly) from the performance of other accounts in the same portfolio without similar restrictions. In addition, the ability to restrict investments does not apply to and does not affect the purchase policies of, or underlying securities held by, any mutual funds, ETFs or other commingled vehicles. Clients may request in writing that specific mutual funds or ETFs not be purchased in an account; however, because mutual funds and ETFs are pooled investment vehicles, it is not possible for our firm to accommodate requests for restrictions on individual securities within such funds.

In certain Advisory programs referenced below, and as outlined in the applicable program Client agreement, in the event that mutual funds, ETFs, or categories of both are restricted, the portion of the

STIFEL SELECT MANAGERS PROGRAM

About our Stifel Select Managers Program

Our Stifel Select Managers Program (“Select Managers Program”) offers Clients access to third-party investment advisers (“Advisers”) and their respective strategies (each, a “Strategy” and collectively, “Strategies”). Once a Client has established his/her investment objectives, goals, and risk tolerance, Stifel will assist the Client in selecting one or more suitable Strategies from those available on our platform. An Adviser’s Strategy may be used individually or in combination with other Strategies, mutual funds and/or ETFs to build an overall allocation that differs from the allocation offered in any one Adviser Strategy. Each Client should carefully review each proposed Adviser’s Strategy to understand how the Client’s account will be invested, as well as the risks related to each such Strategy.

Our Relationship with Third-Party Advisers

Our firm generally does not enter into direct agreements with the Advisers who act in either of the following capacities:

- Manager-Traded Strategies The Independent or Affiliated Adviser for a Manager-Traded Strategy assumes full discretionary portfolio management responsibilities over each Client account invested in the Strategy (in that capacity, an “Investment Manager”), including determining the securities to be bought or sold, implementing those decisions for the invested accounts, and for all other aspects of portfolio management for the accounts. An Investment Manager may implement its trade decisions through Stifel in our capacity as a broker-dealer, or may implement trades through other broker-dealers if the Investment Manager determines, in its sole discretion, that such other broker-dealer is providing best execution in light of all applicable circumstances. Please refer to the Section “Fees and Compensation - Fees and Expenses Associated with “Step Outs” by Investment Managers” for more information about Investment Managers’ trade-away practices.
- Model Strategies. Alternatively, we may enter into an arrangement under which an Adviser agrees to provide their trading models for each applicable Strategy. In these cases, we have entered into an arrangement with a third-party service provider, Envestnet Asset Management, Inc., (“Envestnet”), which provides in part that where an Adviser has agreed to provide their trading model for its Strategies, Envestnet will receive, and provide trade implementation services for, the Model Strategies from the applicable Adviser. Envestnet is authorized to execute Model Strategy transactions through our firm and/or through an unaffiliated broker-dealer firm, as appropriate, depending on its best execution analysis with respect to the specific transaction.

Pursuant to our agreement with Envestnet, Envestnet acts as a liaison between our firm and the various Advisers we make available to our Clients through the Select Managers Program. Envestnet enters into sub-advisory agreements with the Advisers pursuant to which they agree to manage Client accounts as Investment Managers, or to provide Model Strategies which Envestnet will implement.

STIFEL SELECT APM PROGRAM

About our Stifel Select APM Program

Our Stifel Select APM Program (“Select APM Program”) offers Clients discretionary account management by certain Financial account that would have been invested in such may be invested in cash equivalents or short-term fixed income instruments at our discretion. Investments in cash equivalents or short-term fixed income instruments pursuant to such restrictions may impact the performance of the account relative to other accounts that are fully invested in mutual funds and/or ETFs.

We define and/or identify certain types of permissible account restrictions (e.g. prohibiting investments in particular industries or socially responsible categories) by reference to information provided by a third-party service provider using the provider’s proprietary methodologies, which may change at any time without notice to Clients. If a Client elects to impose such types of restrictions to their account, we will apply the restrictions based on our internal policies, by referencing the third-party service provider’s information.

Advisory Programs Offered by Stifel

As set forth on the cover page, we offer various Advisory programs and services to our Clients, including the Select Programs covered in this brochure, as well as those covered in our Wrap Fee Programs Brochure, our Advisory Consulting Services Brochure, and our Financial & Wealth Planning Services Brochure. Each of these brochures is available upon request.

ADVISORY SELECT PROGRAMS OFFERED BY STIFEL

About our Stifel Advisory Select Programs

This brochure covers our Advisory Select Programs (each, a “Program” and collectively, the “Programs”), which are generally “wrap fee” programs, meaning that Clients pay a fee to Stifel that is intended to cover applicable services to the account, including investment advice, portfolio management (where applicable), execution (if executed at Stifel), custody, administrative and account reporting services. We offer a number of different options under these Programs, as well as, where applicable, different portfolios within each Program (each, a “Portfolio” and collectively, the “Portfolios”) as set forth below.

Throughout this brochure and depending on the type of Program referenced, the term “Portfolio Manager” shall refer to, as applicable, i) Stifel where it or your Financial Advisor, as agent for Stifel, provides discretionary portfolio management services (e.g. in connection with our Select APM Program), and/or ii) an Adviser that acts as your direct discretionary Portfolio Manager, or that provides model portfolios for your account, or to whom Stifel has delegated discretionary authority as a sub-adviser to implement such Adviser-provided model portfolios in your account (e.g. in connection with our Select Managers Program). References to the singular include the plural and vice versa.

STIFEL SELECT FUNDS PROGRAM

About the Stifel Select Funds Program

The Stifel Select Funds Program (“Select Funds Program”) provides discretionary investment management services. To implement Clients’ investment objectives and risk tolerance, we utilize an offering of diversified Portfolios designed to meet various investment objectives, primarily through the use of mutual funds and ETFs. Although Portfolios vary by objective and level of risk, they typically provide exposure to fixed income and equity, domestic and international markets, across a range of capitalizations and styles. Allocations can also include exposure to other alternative asset classes. Stifel has delegated investment discretion and day-to-day portfolio management responsibility over the Select Funds Program to its affiliate, 1919 Investment Counsel, LLC (“1919ic”).

Advisors who meet the Select APM Program certification requirements. Once the Client has established his/her investment objectives, goals, risk tolerance, and an overall asset allocation, the Financial Advisor will assist the Client in selecting the appropriate strategy for all or of part of the Client's asset allocation in the account. To implement a Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance, a Financial Advisor may utilize fundamental, qualitative, quantitative and/or technical research published by Stifel or another source. The Financial Advisor may invest in a variety of securities, including (but not limited to) stocks, bonds, mutual funds and ETFs, and may also employ short-term purchases and/or limited options trading, provided such strategies are suitable and appropriate for the Client and, as applicable, approved for the account. The strategies Financial Advisors deploy in this Program will differ, and a Financial Advisor may have one or more strategies to use in managing Client accounts.

Each Client is encouraged to discuss and review with the applicable Financial Advisor how the account will be managed, as well as the specific risks applicable to the Client's Select APM Program account.

Financial Advisor Compensation:

Because Select APM Program accounts are internally managed by our Financial Advisors, no portion of the fee is paid to any third-party Adviser. Rather, the fee is split between Stifel and the Financial Advisor managing the account in accordance with the applicable payout rate (see below under the Section "Fees and Compensation – Compensation to Financial Advisors"). As such, Clients should note that a Select APM Program Financial Advisor may have an incentive to recommend his/her own Select APM Program Portfolio over other Portfolios managed by third-party Advisers as a way to retain a larger portion of the account fee.

STIFEL SELECT ADVISORS PROGRAM

About our Stifel Select Advisors Program

Under the Stifel Select Advisors ("Select Advisors Program") Financial Advisors provide non-discretionary investment advisory services by recommending and advising on the appropriateness of specific investments for Clients in accordance with their stated investment objectives and risk tolerance. Clients are ultimately responsible for determining whether to implement a Financial Advisor's recommendations for the account.

STIFEL SELECT INSTITUTIONAL CONSULTING PROGRAM

Under the Stifel Select Institutional Consulting Services Program ("Select Institutional Consulting Services Program"), Clients receive investment advice from their Financial Advisor with respect to certain assets designated by the Client based upon an analysis of the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance. Clients in the Select Institutional Consulting Services Program assume responsibility for implementing the investment advice that they receive from their Financial Advisor.

General Fee Information

Fees for the Select Institutional Consulting Services Program are determined and calculated utilizing multiple methods. They may include, but are not limited to, a one-time consulting fee, or an annual consulting fee based on the account value of the assets reviewed.

OTHER INFORMATION ABOUT THE PROGRAMS

Where Stifel is your Portfolio Manager, if we believe it is appropriate based upon the investment strategy you have selected, we may recommend that you allocate, or we may take steps on a discretionary basis to allocate, as applicable, (i) your account assets to investments that meet a lower risk tolerance than the one applicable to the investment objectives you have indicated, and/or (ii) a portion of your assets to cash.

We enter into written agreements with Advisory clients acknowledging our Advisory relationship, disclosing our obligations when acting in an Advisory capacity, and describing the roles and responsibilities of each party.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

How We Charge For Advisory Services Covered in this Brochure

For the services provided under the applicable Client Advisory Agreement, Clients generally pay an annual asset-based Advisory Account fee at the rates set forth below (the "Advisory Account Fee," the "fee," or the "Advisory fee"). The Advisory Account Fee consists of: (i) a fee for the services provided by Stifel and the Financial Advisor (referred to as the "Stifel Fee"), and if applicable, (ii) a fee for the Adviser's services with respect to each Portfolio and/or Strategy in which a Client's Advisory account is invested (the "Product Fee(s)").

The Stifel Fee

For the Advisory Programs described in this brochure, each Client pays an asset-based wrap fee to Stifel of up to 2.5%, which covers our administrative, account reporting, and investment advisory services, trade execution for trades through or with Stifel, compensation to the Financial Advisor, and, as applicable, custody of securities, portfolio management and clearing services. The Stifel Fee may be negotiable in our sole discretion.

Product Fees

For the Advisory Programs covered in this brochure which include the services of an Independent or Affiliated Adviser managing or providing Portfolios or Strategies, Clients will also be separately responsible for the Product Fees to compensate such Independent or Affiliated Adviser. Such Product Fees are generally not negotiable and are as follows:

- Select Funds: Up to 0.50%.
- Select Managers: 0.05% to 0.85%, depending on the applicable Strategy. Investnet receives a portion of this fee for its services.

Product Fees set forth above are paid to the applicable Adviser on a quarterly basis.

How We Charge For Advisory Services Covered in this Brochure

The Advisory Account Fee paid by each Client for an Advisory account is set forth on the applicable fee schedule signed by the Client. Actual fees charged may be negotiated or discounted in Stifel's sole discretion and therefore may differ from those outlined above. A Client may pay more or less than seemingly-similarly situated Clients depending on the particular circumstances of the Client, such as the pricing model, the size and scope of the Client relationship, additional or differing levels of service, and/or the asset class to which each Strategy or Portfolio is attributable, as applicable. Clients that negotiate fees with different tiers, including flat fees, may end up paying a higher fee than as set forth in the applicable fee schedule set forth above as a result of fluctuations in the amount of the Client's assets under management and account performance.

There are certain other fee schedules that are no longer offered to new Clients or are only offered to certain specific Clients depending on their individual circumstances. Additionally, certain Clients pay different fees, which may be higher or lower, than the ones referenced above and that are not currently available to all Clients. There are also other fee schedules that may apply to certain specific Strategies in the Programs referenced above.

Calculation of Advisory Account Fees

The Advisory Account Fees for Select Program accounts, other than accounts in the Select Institutional Consulting Services Program, are due quarterly in advance. The initial fee for each account is charged in full on the opening date, based on the account's opening market value. In calculating the annual fee (or any partial period thereof), we assume a 360-day annual period. For the initial fee, the period for which the fee relates is the opening date through the last day of the current calendar quarter, and is prorated accordingly. Thereafter, the fee is based on the account's closing market value on the last business day of the previous calendar quarter. The fee is due on the business day following the assessment day.

In valuing assets held in Client accounts, we rely on publicly recorded information, use various vendor systems which we have reviewed and reasonably believe to be reliable, and/or rely on valuations provided by third-party custodians holding assets and/or accounts that are part of a Client's Advisory relationship with us. For assets held at Stifel, if prices are unavailable, we determine prices in good faith to reflect an understanding of the assets' fair market value. We do not adjust fees for fluctuations in value during a period due to market conditions, or as a result of intra-period transfers out of a Client's Advisory account(s) (including, but not limited to, transfers to a commission-based account for the same Client). However, an account will be charged a prorated fee on additional contributions made during a quarter, to the extent such additions are valued at more than $25,000 or would generate a pro-rated quarterly fee of more than $25. Each Client is responsible for monitoring his or her account to minimize transfers that would increase applicable fees or otherwise result in increased charges.

Any increase in the fee will be agreed upon, in writing, between you and Stifel. However, Stifel may provide you with prior written notice in any instance where a wrap fee is decreased.

Fee Householding

Each Client may request to household their Advisory accounts held at our firm (that is, combine multiple Advisory accounts for purposes of calculating the Advisor Account Fee in order to qualify for available lower fee tiers in each Program). Fee householding can result in lower overall fees to the Client if the aggregate household value is high enough to qualify for lower fee tiers in the applicable Programs. Clients can fee household advisory accounts across multiple Programs. Clients should note, however, that it is the Client's responsibility, not Stifel's, to determine whether Client has multiple Advisory accounts that could be householded and result in lower overall fees to the Client. Clients should contact their Financial Advisor(s) for more detailed information about fee house-holding Advisory Accounts.

Deduction of Advisory Account Fees

Unless otherwise agreed to between Client and Stifel, the Advisory Account Fees outlined above are automatically deducted from available cash or cash equivalents, including money market funds, in the Client's Advisory account on the billing date each quarter. Clients grant us discretionary authority to rebalance or liquidate securities in order to generate sufficient funds to cover the fee, as necessary.

Pursuant to agreement between Client and Stifel, other permissible fee payment options may include:

- Letter of Authorization ("LOA"): Pursuant to an LOA, the Advisory Account Fee may be deducted from a separate non-retirement Stifel account on the billing date each quarter. If the designated account has insufficient funds, we reserve the right to automatically debit the Advisory account to collect the amount due.

- Client Invoice: In certain limited cases, Clients may request to receive an invoice on the billing date each quarter and agree to remit the fee payment promptly. If the fee payment is not received within a reasonable time, we reserve the right to automatically debit the Advisory account to collect the amount due. If the fee payment is debited from a qualified plan and funds are received thereafter, the receivable shall be considered a contribution.

Refund of Fees upon Termination

In the event of a termination, Clients generally will receive a pro rata refund of any pre-paid quarterly fee based upon the number of days remaining in the quarter of termination. Notwithstanding the foregoing, we reserve the right to retain pre-paid quarterly fees if the agreement is terminated at any time within the first quarter of the first year of service.

Client-Directed Transactions and Associated Costs

To the extent that we allow a Client to direct the purchase of securities other than mutual funds and/or ETFs in a Fundamentals account ("non-fund trades"), such non-fund trades may be implemented as non-advisory transactions that are subject to separate commissions. As a non-advisory transaction, neither Stifel nor the Financial Advisor is acting in a fiduciary capacity when implementing and/or recommending such non-fund trades. Securities purchased subject to a commission in a Fundamentals account will be excluded from the account value for Advisory billing purposes for a twelve-month period after purchase, but only to the extent the securities continue to be held in the account. Clients should consider the related transaction costs and the impact on the overall costs of holding the account.

Unsupervised Assets. If a Client's account includes "unsupervised assets" that are excluded from billing (which may include, but are not limited to, positions in our parent company stock, "SF"), mutual fund shares purchased with a sales load at our firm and held for less than three years, or certain ineligible assets depending on the Program in which the account is enrolled), Clients should note that any such unsupervised assets are not considered part of our Advisory relationship. Our firm specifically disclaims any fiduciary obligations with respect to unsupervised assets held in a Client's Advisory account. This means that we do not undertake to monitor any such assets even though they are held in the Advisory account. The unsupervised assets are held in the account solely as an accommodation to the Client. Clients can request a list of the unsupervised assets held in their account(s) at any time, without charge, from their Financial Advisor.

Fees and Expenses Not Included, and Incurred in Addition to, the Advisory Account Fee

The Advisory Account Fees does not include the fees, charges and expenses outlined below. If applicable, you will be charged said fees, charges and expenses in addition to the Advisory Account Fees. If the investment product is offered by a prospectus or other offering document, information about the related fees, charges, and expenses is set forth in such prospectus or other offering document.

Fees and Expenses Associated with "Step-out Trades" by Investment Managers

Each Investment Manager (including Envestnet) that manages all or a portion of a Client's wrap accounts retains the authority to determine the execution venue for transactions in the Client accounts. As such, Investment Managers may determine to direct trades away from Stifel (also called "step-out trades") when they conclude, in their sole discretion, that they will get best execution for a particular transaction through another broker-dealer who may or may not impose additional execution costs for the trade. This may be due to the type of securities that the Investment Manager is buying or selling, or because the Investment Manager is aggregating Stifel Client trades with other non-Stifel client accounts (as further explained below), or for some other reason determined in the sole discretion of the applicable Investment Manager.

Types of Securities Traded

Investment Managers whose Portfolios consist primarily (or substantially) of fixed income securities, foreign securities (including ADRs), ETFs, and/or small cap securities are more likely than other managers to trade away from Stifel. This means that Clients investing in such Portfolios will most likely incur execution costs (whether in the form of commissions or markup/markdowns that are built into the net price of the security) in addition to, and which will not reduce, the annual Advisory fees discussed above. Clients should therefore take these costs into consideration when selecting and/or determining whether to remain invested in the affected Portfolios.

Trade Aggregation

Investment Managers typically manage wrap client accounts for multiple sponsors using the same Strategy, and may also manage other directly sourced accounts side-by-side with wrap client accounts. In certain cases, the Investment Manager may decide to aggregate all client transactions into a block trade that is executed through a single broker-dealer, rather than separately through each participating sponsor (such as Stifel). Aggregating transactions into a single block typically enables the Investment Manager to exercise more control over the execution, including (for example) potentially avoiding an adverse effect on the price of a security that could result from simultaneously placing a series of separate, successive and/or competing client orders.

If additional execution costs (whether as a commission or markup or markdown) are incurred, the Client will be responsible for such execution costs in addition to the Advisory Account Fee. For additional information about each Investment Manager's trade-away practices (including the related execution costs), Clients should also review each applicable Investment Manager's Form ADV Part 2A Brochure.

Other Additional Fees and Expenses

In addition to the fees and expenses explained above, the Advisory Account Fee also does not include:

- Brokerage commissions, markups, markdowns, spreads and odd-lot differentials on transactions directed by an Investment Manager and effected through or with a broker and/or dealer other than Stifel (that is, costs relating to step-out trades or trades away from our firm).
- To the extent allowed in the account, markups and markdowns on agency trades or principal transactions effected by an Investment Manager through or with us (prices at which securities are purchased in principal transactions from other dealers and executed by us acting as agent will be computed by other dealers in the customary manner based on the prevailing inter-dealer market price).
- Any interest expense charged to the account (including, but not limited to, margin interest charged with respect to any margin loans).
- The entire public offering price (including underwriting commissions or discounts) on securities purchased from an underwriter or dealer (excluding our firm) involved in a distribution of securities.
- Exchange fees, transfer or other taxes, and other fees required by law, including (but not limited to), taxes or fees imposed by any foreign entity in connection with securities transactions in the account.
- Account, third-party administration and/or termination fees associated with external qualified retirement plan (including IRAs).

- "Pass-through fees" charged by third parties with respect to any securities relating to the portfolio, including, but not limited to, pass-through fees charged (including any wire charges or conversion fees) in connection with ADRs by the sponsors of such ADRs as custody-related expenses.
- Wire transfer fees (including those associated with alternative investment transactions).
- Fees or expenses related to trading in foreign securities (other than commissions otherwise payable to Stifel).
- Fees, charges, or other costs and expenses related to collective investment vehicles, such as affiliated and unaffiliated closed-end funds, mutual funds, ETFs, index funds, investment trusts, REITs, or other pooled investment vehicles (including, but not limited to, annual operating expenses, portfolio management, distribution and marketing, early redemption fees, or similar fees, in each case as outlined in the individual fund prospectus).
- Any other item not specifically included in the services described in the applicable Client Advisory Agreement.

Each Client should carefully consider the overall cost when selecting a Program or Portfolio.

Compensation to Financial Advisors, Envestnet and third-party Advisers

We remit a percentage ("Payout Rate") of the Advisory Fees and, if applicable, commissions that we receive from Clients to our Financial Advisors. Payout Rates generally range from 25% to 50% and are determined by many factors, including the total revenue generated by the Financial Advisor and the Program in which the Client is enrolled. Under certain circumstances, including mergers and acquisitions, some Financial Advisors may be compensated differently. We reserve the right, in our sole discretion, and without prior notice, to change the method by which our Financial Advisors are compensated. Financial Advisors are generally compensated on a monthly basis.

On a quarterly basis, we remit the Product Fees to Envestnet (and third-party Advisers or Investment Managers) within the following range: 0.05% to 0.85%.

Certain Compensation in Addition to the Stifel Advisory Fee

Stifel, our Financial Advisors and our affiliates may, from time to time, receive additional compensation in connection with certain types of assets in which Clients' Advisory accounts may be invested. This compensation is in addition to the Stifel Advisory Fee that a Client pays to us for our investment advisory services. The receipt of this compensation may create an incentive to recommend investment products based on the compensation received rather than a Clients' needs. Clients have the option to purchase investment products that we recommend through brokers who are not affiliated with us.

Brokerage Commissions

For all Programs, the Stifel Advisory Fee includes the costs associated with our execution services, with limited exceptions. We generally do not charge separate brokerage commissions for trades that we execute for accounts in the Programs covered in this brochure, unless as specifically disclosed to the affected Client (such as in the Client Advisory Agreement, addendums thereto, or in other applicable documents). As licensed securities salespersons, Financial Advisors may effect securities transactions for commissions, generally in connection with brokerage accounts. Most Financial Advisors are licensed to provide both brokerage and Advisory services.

Compensation from Registered Funds

Clients may incur direct fees and expenses for investments in mutual funds, ETFs, closed-end funds, UITs and/or money market funds (collectively, “Registered Funds”). These fees and expenses are initially paid by the Fund complex, but are passed on to all Fund investors owning the same class of shares and are separate and in addition to fees charged for our Advisory services. Such fees and expenses will be included in the price of a Registered Fund and are not separately itemized, but are described in each Registered Fund prospectus. The types of fees and compensation that we may receive from Registered Fund companies include (but may not be limited to):

- (i) Networking and Omnibus Fees: Registered Funds generally pay networking and/or omnibus fees in consideration for ancillary services provided in connection with fund positions held through us. Networking fees are generally calculated by applying the standard networking range of up to $10 per fund account annually. Omnibus fees may range up to $19 per fund account annually, or 0.15% of the Registered Fund assets held at Stifel.
- (ii) 12b-1 Distribution Fees (“12b-1s”) are received directly from the Registered Funds, both affiliated and non-affiliated, for distribution and shareholder services we provide in connection with the purchase and sale of mutual fund shares. The current rate of 12b-1 fees that we receive from Registered Fund companies generally ranges from 0% to 0.25% annually.
- (iii) Revenue Sharing Compensation is intended to compensate us for assisting with the sales and providing distribution support and ancillary services related to sales of mutual fund shares. Revenue share compensation is generally based on either the amount of sales or the value of assets our firm’s Clients hold with the particular fund company. Such payments are generally made directly from the Registered Fund’s distributors and not from the Registered Funds themselves. Revenue Sharing may give our firm a financial incentive to recommend particular Funds to Clients. We generally receive Revenue Sharing in connection with Registered Fund shares held in Stifel accounts (or for the benefit of Stifel Client accounts held directly with a Registered Fund company), rather than shares held at other financial institutions. Although we seek to apply a standard payment schedule, not all Registered Fund companies approach Revenue Sharing the same way, and some fund companies may decline to pay Revenue Sharing at the levels listed above, or at all, which may present a financial disincentive for us to promote the sale of those funds. This Revenue Sharing information is subject to change at our discretion. We do not pay any portion of any Revenue Sharing received to our Financial Advisors to mitigate the potential conflicts of interest that could arise if our Financial Advisors recommended Registered Funds based on our firm’s Revenue Sharing arrangements.
- (iv) Training and Education Expense Contributions: Registered Fund companies and/or Advisers may subsidize a portion of the cost of training and achievement seminars offered to our Financial Advisors through specialized firm wide programs and consulting training forums. These seminars are designed to provide education and training to Financial Advisors recommend (or are considering recommending) the Registered Fund and/or Adviser’s Portfolio or Strategies to Client. The subsidies may vary, and no vendor company is required to participate in the seminars or to contribute to the costs of the seminars in order to have their products or services available on our platform. Financial Advisors do not receive a portion of these payments. However, their attendance and participation in these events, as well as the increased exposure to vendors who sponsor the events, may lead Financial Advisors to recommend the products and services of those vendors as compared to those who do not.

- (v) Fund Management Fees Received By Our Affiliates: As set forth above, some of our affiliates also may serve as investment adviser and/or model providers to various Registered Funds which our Financial Advisors may recommend to and/or purchase for Client accounts. These affiliates will receive management fees (or a share thereof) from the Registered Fund or the Funds’ adviser, even in cases where the Registered Fund shares are purchased and held in Stifel Advisory accounts (thereby, subject to Stifel Advisory Fees). Our firm does not directly share in any Fund management or other fees received by our affiliates for their management services to the Registered Funds. However, as part of the affiliated group, we may receive indirect benefits from such compensation through our parent company.

Registered Funds generally are sold by prospectus only. The prospectus contains important information about the specific Registered Fund being offered and should be reviewed carefully before investing. Although paid directly by a Registered Fund company, the compensation that we receive from funds set forth above generally is derived from fees that the Client pays to the Registered Fund. The amount of compensation received will vary depending on our arrangement with the applicable Registered Fund. Each Registered Fund’s prospectus generally describes the amount of compensation to be paid for specified services provided to its shareholders. In general, the Fund companies will continue to pay us for the duration of the Advisory agreements and, in some circumstances, may extend payments beyond the termination of the agreements if Clients continue to hold Registered Fund shares through brokerage accounts held at Stifel. A listing of the types and ranges of compensation that we receive from various Registered Fund companies is available at www.stifel.com/disclosures/ERISA. We highly encourage all Clients to review this information carefully. To the extent we do receive additional compensation discussed above from Registered Funds (including, for example, Revenue Sharing), we reserve the right not to rebate any such additional compensation to Clients (except with respect to IRA accounts and accounts subject to ERISA, in which case we generally will offset from the rebated amount, the value of our actual costs to provide the services for which we are being paid by the Registered Fund).

Interest and Similar Fees

To the extent that the automatic sweep option for available cash in a Client’s account is set to one of our insured bank deposit programs, we may (depending on the type of account) receive fees from participating banks in the program in connection with such Client funds. The fees (if any) that we receive are intended to, among other things, reimburse for the costs that we incur in connection with such program. However, from time to time, the fees that we receive and retain may be more or less than the actual costs incurred.

With respect to margin transactions, each Client that engages in such transactions should note that we charge interest on the amount borrowed and, if the proceeds are used to purchase securities in the Advisory account, our Advisory Account Fees for the account are based on the market value of the account without regard to the amount borrowed. We do not reduce our fees by the value of any interest or similar payments that we receive from Clients in this regard. Each Client is strongly advised to carefully review the impact (including the long-term effects) that each of these practices will have on their overall account.

To the extent a Client uses the assets in Advisory accounts to collateralize non-purpose loans (“Credit Line Loans”) with our affiliated bank, the affiliated bank may pay us an amount up to 0.25% on the outstanding principal balance of the Credit Line Loan.

We pay portion of any such amounts received to the Financial Advisor.

Float

As set out in the section “Cash Sweep Program” below, if we serve as custodian of a Client account, un-invested cash in the account is generally swept in accordance with the option selected by the Client. However, during the period between when the cash is received into the account, and when such cash is swept into the selected option, we may benefit from the cash held in such Client accounts due to:

- new deposits to the account (including cash from interest and dividends paid on securities held in such account), and
- Un-invested cash in the account caused by instructions to buy and sell securities (which may, after the period described below, be automatically swept into a sweep vehicle).

For example, if we receive the cash after the close of business on a day in which the NYSE was open (“Business Day”), we may earn interest or receive other benefits through the end of the second following Business Day.

Revenue Sharing with Private Funds or their Sponsors

From time to time, we may enter into revenue-sharing arrangements with private funds in which our Clients invest, or the managers or sponsors of such private funds. In limited circumstances, our firm and/or our Financial Advisors may also receive placement fees or commissions from a private fund or its sponsor as compensation for recommending and/or selling the private fund to Clients. To the extent that we receive placement fees and/or have a revenue-sharing arrangement with any private fund in which Client assets are invested, the Client will typically receive, at or prior to the time the investment is made, disclosures relating to the fees and compensation that our firm and/or the Financial Advisor will receive in respect of the investment (including, to the extent applicable, any ongoing payments). Clients should carefully consider such arrangements in determining whether to implement a Financial Advisor’s recommendations relating to private funds.

Insurance Commissions

In addition to being a dual registrant, our firm is also licensed as an insurance agency with various states. As such, eligible, i.e. licensed, Financial Advisors are able to offer various insurance products to Clients. Such Financial Advisors are generally licensed as insurance agents and, as such, can effect insurance transactions for separate and customary commission compensation. We receive a portion of any commissions that the issuing insurance company pays with respect to insurance products sold by our Financial Advisors.

Non-Cash Compensation

Financial Advisors may receive non-cash compensation from mutual fund companies, third-party Advisers, insurance vendors, and/or sponsors of products that we distribute in the form of occasional gifts, meals, tickets, and/or other forms of entertainment.

General Disclosure on Conflicts of Interest

As set forth above, the additional compensation associated with the Programs and/or investments described in the preceding section, to be paid to and retained by Stifel and/or one or more of our affiliates (and which may be shared with your Financial Advisor), may present a conflict between the interests of Clients on the one hand and those of Stifel, our affiliates and your Financial Advisor on the other. This additional compensation may provide an incentive to Stifel and/or your Financial Advisor, in exercising discretion or making recommendations for your account, to choose or recommend investments that result in higher compensation to our firm, your Financial Advisor and/or affiliates of Stifel. For example, your Financial Advisor will receive a portion of the Stifel Advisory Fee that we retain after paying, as applicable, the third-party Adviser its portion of the Advisory fee. As a result, our Financial Advisors may have an incentive to recommend Advisory Programs in which the fee is not shared with a third-party Adviser in order to receive a higher portion of the fee. Additionally, for those Programs in which Stifel pays a portion of the Advisory Account Fee to third-party Advisers, which tends to be less if we trade the Portfolio internally than if it is Manager-Traded. Clients should note that their Financial Advisor may have an incentive to recommend MBT Portfolios in the applicable Programs over Manager-Traded Portfolios in order to retain a larger portion of the fee.

In these circumstances, it is our duty to determine that an investment made in your Account or recommended to you that results in such additional compensation is in your best interest based upon the information you have provided to us.

It is important to note that the services provided to you under the wrap fee Programs described above may be obtained on an unbundled basis and may result in overall lower costs. You could use a commission-based brokerage account instead of a fee-based investment Advisory account and independently retain a third-party advisor to manage your custodial account. In certain cases, the total charges that you may pay in Advisory Account Fees may be higher than the commissions that could have been charged for brokerage-only services. There may also be cases where the wrap fees charged for Programs covered in this brochure may be higher than if the Client obtained the services covered by such wrap fee separately (that is, if you paid separately advisory services, portfolio management services, trade execution, custody and related services). You should consider the value of Advisory services provided or to be provided under each Program when evaluating fees or the appropriateness of the Advisory account in general. The combination of brokerage and Advisory services may not be available separately or may require multiple accounts and varying forms of payment. You are responsible for determining whether a wrap fee program is appropriate for you. Therefore, you should understand the investment strategy you have selected and the amount of anticipated trading activity in assessing the overall cost of the Program. Relative transaction infrequency could have a bearing on whether a wrap, asset-based fee account is more appropriate for you than a commission-based account.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

We do not charge performance-based fees for our investment advisory services.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER SELECTION AND EVALUATION

Our Process for Selecting and Evaluating Third-Party Advisers

In selecting third-party Advisers, we seek to identify those that represent various investment strategies across several investment styles and asset classes. Pursuant to our agreement with Envestnet, Envestnet conducts the first level of review and due diligence on potential third-party Advisers to be made available in our Select Managers Program. This level of due diligence is generally quantitative, and focuses on such issues as (among others) the Adviser's prior performance relative to its peer group. If a prospective Adviser passes Envestnet's standards, our personnel then conduct additional due diligence that seeks to identify Advisers who have demonstrated an ability to successfully manage assets, taking into account factors such as the investment style and philosophy, account minimum, assets under management, number of investment professionals on staff, and number of years in business. Our staff may also perform on-site meetings with potential and/or new Advisers. Clients should note that our process for selecting Affiliated Advisers may be less rigorous than as set forth above.

Our staff conducts ongoing due diligence of Advisers that have been approved and are available in our Select Managers Program. These due diligence activities may include reviewing the Advisers' reported performance (generally available in various vendor databases), as well as (when deemed appropriate) conducting on-site and/or telephonic reviews with the investment and other personnel of such third-party Advisers. Our staff may use research from affiliates or other research sources in conducting their due diligence of Advisers.

Replacing third-party Advisers

We may consider replacing Advisers if there are substantial changes in their investment style that prove to be inconsistent with the style, philosophy, and policies upon which they were selected. Additionally, we may consider replacing Advisers who have invested in prohibited securities, experienced material changes in their business structure, and/or failed to abide by Client objectives and/or restrictions, abide by the terms or conditions of the applicable agreement and/or any amendments thereto, or demonstrated unacceptable performance.

CLIENT INFORMATION PROVIDED TO PORTFOLIO MANAGERS

We typically provide information about a Client's financial condition, investment needs, and/or investment restrictions to Envestnet as well as any Adviser with full discretion over a Client's account. We may also provide annual updates (if any) to the information, or more often as available from the Client. We and/or the Financial Advisor (not Envestnet or the Adviser) are responsible for collecting data about Client investment goals and objectives and determining whether a particular Program and/or Strategy is appropriate for the Client based on the stated goals and objectives.

CLIENT CONTACT WITH PORTFOLIO MANAGERS

While Clients may communicate directly with the third-party Adviser of the Portfolio in which the Client is invested, we strongly encourage Clients to facilitate such communications through their Financial Advisor.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES, AND RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies

In the cases where Financial Advisors are directing and/or recommending specific securities or investments, they generally use information obtained from various sources including financial publications, inspections of corporate activities, company press releases, research material prepared by affiliates and/or third parties, rating or timing services, regulatory and self-regulatory reports, and other public sources. In addition, our Financial Advisors may also use research provided by our Research Department and/or from third-party independent sources relating to a broad range of research and information about the economy, industries, groups of securities and individual companies, statistical information, market data, accounting and tax law interpretations, political developments, pricing and appraisal services, credit analysis, risk measurement analysis, performance analysis, and other information which may affect the economy or securities prices. The research used may be in the form of written reports, telephone contacts, and personal meetings with research analysts, economists, government representatives, and corporate and industry spokespersons. Financial Advisors use any and/or a combination of fundamental, technical, quantitative, and statistical tools and valuation methodologies. As a result of these different methodologies, technical or quantitative research recommendations may differ from, or be inconsistent with, fundamental opinions for the same security.

Important issues and valuation measures that Financial Advisors may consider when selecting specific equity securities for Advisory accounts include, but are not limited to, dividend return, ratio of growth rate to price/earnings multiple, ratio of market price to book value, market capitalization to revenue ratio, relative strength, management capability and reputation, corporate restructuring trends, asset value versus market value, and other fundamental and technical analysis. With respect to fixed income securities, Financial Advisors assist the Client to determine, or recommend to the Client, the appropriate type of security (government, corporate, or municipal), the appropriate maturity and diversification, and the appropriate parameters that will apply to the fixed income securities to be purchased for a Client account.

In general, our Advisory services with respect to the Programs offered in this brochure typically combine strategic asset allocation and periodic rebalancing with the aim of growing and/or preserving principal. Financial Advisors generally assist Clients in designing portfolios with a long-term perspective, and periodically rebalance the portfolios to manage risk.

Clients should refer to each Program and Strategy or Portfolio description for a more information (where available) of the investment strategies and methods of analysis used in connection with such Program, Strategy, or Portfolio.

Risk of Loss

Clients should understand that all investment strategies and the investments made when implementing those investment strategies involve risk of loss and clients should be prepared to bear the loss of assets invested. The investment performance and the success of any investment strategy or particular investment can never be predicted or guaranteed, and the value of a client's investments fluctuates due to market conditions and other factors.

Financial Advisors may recommend a wide array of investments. In general, each Program and/or Strategy covers a wide range of securities. As such, the types of risks that each Client will be exposed to will vary depending on the particular Program and Strategy in which the Client is enrolled, as well as the investments held in the Client's Advisory account, and such accounts will not necessarily be profitable. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results.

Material Risks

For the Strategies and Portfolios that are part of the Programs listed above, equities, ETFs, mutual funds, options and fixed income securities are the primary investments. Clients should always read the prospectus and other offering documents (or, in the case of an Adviser Strategy, the Adviser's Form ADV Part 2A or the Strategy Description) for a full description of risks associated with the particular investment. Clients are urged to consider all of the risks associated with the types of transactions and securities involved in the Portfolio or Strategy in which they are contemplating an investment, as listed below, as well as any potential impact that engaging in any of the below transactions may have on an account's overall performance.

The following material risks may also be applicable to Advisory accounts invested in the Programs covered in this brochure:

Third-Party Adviser Management Style Risks: We generally select and/or recommend third-party Advisers based on, among other things, the Adviser's prior risk-adjusted performance and expertise (including how the Adviser's investment strategies and policies correlate to the Portfolio's stated objectives and strategies). However, an Adviser's prior performance is not a guarantee of its future results; as such, its investment strategies may fail to produce the intended results.

Model-Based Trading Risks: As outlined above, we currently use a third-party vendor, Envestnet, to implement trades in our Select Managers Program accounts, in the cases where third-party Advisers provide their trading models for their Strategies; however, our firm is ultimately responsible for such trading activity. Consistent with our agreement, Envestnet generally implements changes to such Adviser-provided Strategies within the timeline and/or in the lots directed by a third-party Adviser. However, there may be times when a trade is not executed in the allocations or at the prices deemed ideal by the Adviser. There may also be times when Envestnet is entirely unable to implement a recommendation due to restrictions applicable to our firm in our capacity as a broker-dealer or otherwise. For example, we may not be able to purchase a recommended security because the security is the subject of a research report by one of our firm's research analysts, or because our firm is involved in investment banking activities with the issuer of the security. Third-party Advisers may also manage similar Strategies directly, and/or may provide the same Strategies to multiple sponsor firms. This means that when changes are made to a Strategy and disseminated to Envestnet, similar changes are also disseminated to multiple sponsor firms, each of whom will attempt to implement such changes as soon as they are received. This generally will result in increased demand for the specific securities that are covered by the Strategy, which generally will increase the price at which each such security may be bought (or decrease the sale price, as the case may be). Clients should note that this may, in turn, adversely affect the performance of their Select Managers Program accounts. Based on all of the foregoing, Clients investing in Strategies traded by Envestnet in the Select Managers Program should understand that the performance returns achieved by their accounts may differ (at times significantly) from the performance of the Strategy as reported by its Adviser. Clients should carefully review each Portfolio description prior to investing to ensure that they understand how the Portfolio will be managed as well as the related risks.

Investment Company Securities Risks: A number of Strategies/Portfolios covered in this brochure are heavily invested in mutual funds. In addition, Advisory accounts may invest in other investment vehicles, including ETFs, UITs, and/or closed-end funds. Each fund in a Strategy/Portfolio may be subject to a variety of risks, depending on its investment strategies and/or the securities held by the fund. For example, mutual funds that primarily hold a portfolio of small capitalization companies will be subject to small capitalization risks, which may include increased volatility and decreased liquidity (relative to large capitalization companies).

An ETF's shares may trade at a market price that is above or below its net asset value. Various funds, such as leveraged ETFs, also use investment techniques and financial instruments that may be considered aggressive, including the use of derivative transactions and short-selling techniques. The use of inverse strategies by a fund increases the risk to the fund and magnifies gains or losses on the investment. An investor could incur significant losses even if the long-term performance of the underlying index showed a gain. Most inverse ETFs "reset" daily. Due to the effect of compounding, their performance over longer periods of time can differ significantly from the performance (or inverse of the performance) of their underlying index or benchmark during the same period of time.

Fixed Income Securities Risks: Fixed income securities are subject to credit risk, interest rate risk, and liquidity risk. Credit risk is the risk the issuer or guarantor of a debt security will be unable or unwilling to make timely payments of interest or principal or to otherwise honor its obligations. Interest rate risk is the risk of losses due to changes in interest rates. In general, the prices of debt securities rise when interest rates fall, and the prices fall when interest rates rise. Duration measures the change in the price of a fixed income security based on the increase or decrease in overall interest rates. Bonds with higher duration carry more risks and have higher price volatility than bonds with lower duration. Therefore, if interest rates are very low at the time of purchase of the bonds, when interest rates eventually do rise, the price of such lower interest rate bonds will decrease, and anyone needing to sell such bonds at that time, rather than holding them to maturity, could realize a loss. High-yield debt securities (junk bonds) generally are more sensitive to interest rates. Such securities are also highly subject to liquidity risk. Liquidity risk is the risk that a particular security may be difficult to purchase or sell and that an investor may be unable to sell illiquid securities at an advantageous time or price. There are also special tax considerations associated with investing in high-yield securities structured as zero coupon or pay-in-kind securities. Municipal bonds are also subject to state-specific risks, such as changes in the issuing state's credit rating, as well as the risk that legislative changes may affect the tax status of such bonds. Municipal bonds may also have a call feature, entitling the issuer to redeem the bond prior to maturity. A callable security's duration, or sensitivity to interest rate changes, decreases when rates fall and increases when rates rise because issuers are likely to call the bond only if the rates are low. Investors in callable bonds are therefore subject to re-investment risk – that they will need to re-invest their proceeds at lower rates. Investments in government-sponsored entity securities also exhibit these risks, although the degree of such risks may vary significantly among the different government-sponsored entity securities. Some securities issued or guaranteed by U.S. government agencies or instrumentalities are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. and may only be supported by the right of the agency or instrumentality to borrow from the U.S. Treasury.

Derivatives Risks: A number of Strategies/Portfolios covered in this brochure may engage in derivative transactions, including, but not limited to, options and futures, for any purpose consistent with the Strategy and/or the Client's investment objective. Generally, a derivative is a financial arrangement, the value of which is derived from, or based on, a traditional security, asset, or market index. Such transactions may be used for several reasons, including hedging unrealized gains. Hedging strategies, if successful, can reduce the risk of loss by offsetting the negative effect of unfavorable price movements in the investments being hedged. However, hedging strategies can also reduce the opportunity for gain by offsetting the positive effect of favorable price movements in the hedged investments. A Strategy may also use derivative instruments to obtain market exposure (that is, for speculative purposes rather than hedging). A Strategy may establish a position in the derivatives market as a substitute for buying, selling, or holding certain securities. The use of derivative transactions is a highly specialized activity that involves investment techniques and risks that may be more heightened than those associated with ordinary portfolio securities transactions. Strategies or other accounts in various Programs may also engage in short selling. A short sale involves the sale of a security that is borrowed. Short sales expose a Client's account to the risk that it will be required to acquire, convert, or exchange securities to replace the borrowed securities (also known as “covering” the short position) at a time when the securities sold short have appreciated in value, thus resulting in a loss. An account’s investment performance may also suffer if required to close out a short position earlier than initially anticipated. In addition, an account may be subject to expenses related to short sales that are not typically associated with investing in securities directly, such as margin account maintenance costs. Each client is urged to carefully consider the impact that engaging in any of these transactions will have on the account’s overall performance.

Alternative Investments Risks: Some Strategies may invest in alternative investments. Alternative investments, including (but not limited to) investment partnerships, alternative mutual funds, non-traditional ETFs, managed futures, and/or real estate (related) investments may also present unique risks, such as decreased liquidity and transparency and increased complexity. Alternative investments typically use derivative instruments (such as options, futures, or index-based instruments) and/or leveraging strategies. The use of derivative instruments involves multiple risks as discussed in more detail above. In addition, to the extent that the alternative investment uses commodities (or commodity-based derivatives) as part of its investment strategy, the investment return may also vary as a result of fluctuations in the supply and demand of the underlying commodities. Real estate-related investments will be subject to risks generally related to real estate, including risks specific to geographic areas in which the underlying investments were made. Certain alternative investments may be less tax efficient than others.

Additional risks may include style-specific risk, speculative investment risk, concentration risk, correlation risk, credit risk and lower-quality debt securities risk, equity securities risk, financial services companies’ risk, interest rate risk, non-diversification risk, small- and mid-cap company risk, and special risks of mutual funds and/or ETFs, among others.

Tax-Exempt Securities Risks: Certain Portfolios or Strategies may seek to invest in tax-exempt securities, including (but not limited to) municipal bonds as well as tax-exempt mutual funds and ETFs. In order to attempt to pay interest that is exempt from federal or state and local income tax, tax-exempt securities must meet certain legal requirements. Failure to meet such requirements may cause the interest received and distributed to shareholders to be taxable. In addition, income from one or more municipal bonds held in the Portfolio could be declared taxable because of unfavorable changes in tax or other laws, adverse interpretations by the Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”), state, or other tax authorities, or noncompliant conduct of a bond issuer. Changes or proposed changes in federal or state income tax or other laws may also cause the prices of tax-exempt securities to fall. Finally, income from certain municipal bonds may be subject to the alternative minimum tax (“AMT”) and/or state and local taxes, based on the investor’s state of residence.

Foreign Securities Risks: Advisory accounts may invest in foreign securities, directly or through funds that hold a portfolio of foreign securities. Foreign securities can be more volatile than domestic (U.S.) securities. Securities markets of other countries are generally smaller than U.S. securities markets. Many foreign securities may also be less liquid than U.S. securities, and are typically subject to currency risk. Some foreign securities also may be subject to taxes and other charges imposed by the issuer’s country of residence or citizenship. Certain foreign securities may be subject to additional costs and risks. As set forth elsewhere in this brochure and/or in the Client agreement, such taxes and charges are in addition to (i.e., are not included in) a Client’s account fees. All these factors could affect a client’s realized return on the investment.

Frequent Trading and High Portfolio Turnover Rate Risk: The turnover rate within certain discretionary Advisory accounts may be significant. In connection with Strategies run by Investment Managers that engage in step-out trades, frequent trades may result in high transactions costs, including substantial brokerage commissions, fees, and other transaction costs. In addition, frequent trading (whether or not through step-out trades) is likely to result in short-term capital gains tax treatment. As a result, high turnover and frequent trading in an Advisory account could have an adverse effect on the cost and therefore the return on the Advisory account.

Infrequent Trading/Low Portfolio Turnover Rate Risk: Certain Strategies (such as fixed income Strategies) and/or accounts in the Programs covered in this brochure may trade infrequently and experience low (in some cases extremely low) turnover. As set forth elsewhere in this brochure, wrap fees charged are intended to cover various services, including trade execution. We generally assume regular trading when setting the levels of wrap fees that may be charged with respect to the Programs covered in this brochure. If a specific Client experiences low turnover in the Client’s wrap account, the Client may not realize the full benefit of the wrap fee paid with respect to such wrap account. Clients are encouraged to discuss the expected and/or historical level of trading with their Financial Advisor when evaluating the cost of a proposed or existing wrap account.

Diversification Risk: Certain Strategies and Portfolios invest primarily in mutual funds and other Registered Funds that are managed by their affiliated companies. As a result, clients in these Strategies and Portfolios may not have access to as wide a variety of management styles as Clients in our other Strategies and Portfolios.

Dependence on Key Personnel: Some of the Portfolios and/or Strategies covered in this brochure may rely heavily on certain key personnel of our firm, our affiliates, and/or the personnel of certain Advisers available on our platform. The departure of any such key personnel or their inability to fulfill their duties may adversely affect the ability of an applicable Strategy or Portfolio to effectively implement its investment program and, as a result, adversely impact the performance of the Advisory accounts enrolled in such Portfolio or Strategy.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

1. On January 4, 2017, an Administrative Consent Order (“Order”) was entered against Stifel, Nicolaus & Company, Inc. OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

As set forth above, our firm is dual registered as an investment adviser and a broker-dealer, and is also a licensed insurance agency with various states.

We have a number of affiliates that are registered as investment advisers or broker-dealers (or both). In addition to being registered representatives of Stifel, some of our management persons may be registered representatives of these affiliated broker-dealers. In addition, some of our management persons may be licensed to practice law in various states. These individuals do not provide legal services to Advisory Clients. Our parent company, Stifel Financial Corp., is a publicly traded company. In accordance with applicable exchange rules, our Financial Advisors are prohibited from soliciting or recommending Clients, and/or using their discretionary authority, to purchase our parent company stock (ticker: SF) for the benefit of Client accounts. If a Client determines, notwithstanding the foregoing, to require the purchase of SF in an account, we may agree to purchase such securities and may, at our sole discretion, require the Client to acknowledge the unsolicited nature of the transaction and/or exclude the underlying value of the stock from the billable value of the account.

The following affiliates may be involved, directly or indirectly, in the Advisory services provided to Clients in the Programs covered in this brochure:

Sterne Agee Affiliates. As of July 13, 2015, substantially all of Sterne, Agee & Leach, Inc., an SEC-registered broker-dealer ("SALI")'s brokerage business, and a portion of Sterne Asset Management, Inc., an SEC-registered investment adviser ("SAAM")'s Advisory business was transferred to Stifel Nicolaus (the "Conversion"). The Select Programs covered in this brochure were all previously available exclusively through SAAM or its affiliates, and are now available at Stifel as a result of our parent company's anticipated acquisition of Sterne Agee Group. Following the Conversion, SAAM and/or SALI may continue to provide limited continuing services to Clients in the Select Programs, until such time as the arrangement is discontinued and/or such firms are no longer in existence.

Other Affiliated Investment Advisers and Broker-Dealers. We have a number of arrangements with our other Affiliated Advisers and broker-dealers that are primarily applicable to Clients enrolled in a number of our Programs, which may include certain Select Programs covered in this brochure. With respect to these Programs, our Financial Advisors may have an incentive to recommend Portfolios using these affiliates rather than unaffiliated entities since, to the extent any portion of the portfolio management fees goes to an affiliate, such funds remain within the Stifel umbrella. To mitigate this risk, we do not pay our Financial Advisors on the basis of recommendations of Affiliated Advisers or other affiliated products. However, as a result of such affiliations, our Financial Advisors may develop close personal relationships with employees and associated persons of our Affiliated Advisers and, as a result, may have an incentive to recommend such Affiliated Advisers over unaffiliated ones.

Effective June 30, 2016, our affiliate, 1919ic will serve as Portfolio Manager to the Select Funds Program included in this brochure. Our other affiliates, including Ziegler Capital Management, LLC ("Ziegler"), Sagewood Asset Management LLC ("Sagewood"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Ziegler, Thomas Weisel Capital Management LLC, Choice Financial Partners, Inc., d/b/a EquityCompass Strategies, and Washington Crossing Advisors, may also serve as Portfolio Managers and/or provide model Strategies with respect to the Portfolios in which Client accounts are invested. As with all other sub-Advisers, we pay our affiliates the Product Fees that we receive from Clients enrolled in our Advisory Programs, in the same range as unaffiliated Advisers.

We also serve as clearing broker and custodian to accounts sourced by our affiliate, Century Securities Associates. We may also provide portfolio management services to some of these clients to the extent they are enrolled in our discretionary Wrap Fee Programs covered in a separate brochure. We receive a share of the fees and/or charges paid by Century clients in connection with the services that we provide.

Affiliated Trust Companies. Our affiliates, Stifel Trust Company, N.A., 1919 Investment Counsel & Trust Co., The Trust Company of Sterne Agee Inc., and Stifel Trust Company Delaware, N.A., each provide personal trust services (including serving as trustee or co-trustee, or custodian) for individuals and organizations. From time to time, as trustee or co-trustee, these trust affiliates may open an Advisory account with us. In such cases, the fees charged by our trust affiliates are structured in a manner that is consistent with applicable fiduciary principles.

Keefe, Bruyette & Woods ("KBW") – Our Financial Advisors may, from time to time, use research provided by our affiliate, KBW, in connection with the services provided to Clients with Advisory accounts. Clients are not charged for the value of such research. Stifel does not use KBW to execute Client trades or otherwise provide services to Client accounts.

Affiliated Mutual Funds. From time to time, Client assets may be invested in shares of mutual funds managed by our affiliates. As of the date of this brochure, affiliated mutual funds directly managed by our Affiliated Advisers include EquityCompass Quality Dividend Fund, Catalyst/EquityCompass Buyback Strategy Fund, Ziegler Strategic Income Fund, Ziegler Floating Rate Fund, 1919 Financial Services Fund, 1919 Maryland Tax-Free Income Fund, 1919 Socially Responsive Balanced Fund, and 1919 Variable Socially Responsive Balanced Fund. Additional products may be introduced in the future. In each case, these Affiliated Advisers receive management fees for their services to the funds. Our affiliates also may serve as sub-adviser and/or provide the investment model used by the fund's named investment adviser to manage the various other mutual funds. For these services, the affiliates generally will receive a fee from the fund's investment adviser (typically a share of the applicable fund's management fee). Our Financial Advisors may also recommend any of these funds to non-discretionary Clients, or may purchase shares of these funds in discretionary Client accounts, provided, however, that the fund shares may not be purchased on behalf of any account that is subject to, or covered by, ERISA provisions. Clients should note that with limited exceptions, we do not reduce our Advisory Fees by the value of any internal fund expenses that may be paid to/received by our Affiliated Advisers.

Other Affiliated Products. From time to time, Stifel, in its capacity as a broker, may offer various products that are connected to its affiliates, such as where an affiliate receives fees relating to such products. As of the date of this brochure, these may include, but are not limited to, the common stock as well as any debt securities issued by our parent company (including securities trading under the symbols SF and SFN); various iterations of medium-term notes issued by Barclays Capital, a division of Barclays Bank PLC, which are linked to the EquityCompass Share Buyback Index; various ETFs issued by Invesco PowerShares and/or ProFunds Group, each of which is linked to a KBW financial sector index; as well as securities issued by CM Finance (trading under the symbol CMFN). Additional products may be introduced in the future. Such products may not be purchased or held in an Advisory account that is subject to or covered by ERISA provisions. To the extent that these products are purchased/held in any other Advisory account, our affiliate (such as EquityCompass, KBW or others, as the case may be) may receive a portion of the fees or other remuneration received by the issuer of the product, in each case as per the affiliate's agreement with the issuer. Clients should note that, with limited exceptions, we do not reduce our Advisory Fees by the value of any compensation that may be paid by the product's issuer to the affiliate.

Stifel Bank & Trust ("SB&T") In connection with the insured bank deposit programs offered as cash sweep options for our Client accounts (discussed below in the Section titled "Cash Sweep Options"), our affiliate, SB&T is either the sole participating bank, or one of the participating banks (and typically the first bank), into which idle cash swept from eligible Client accounts may be swept. In addition, from time to time, Advisory Clients may also have a direct relationship with SB&T and hold other personal deposit and/or bank accounts at SB&T in which case, such Clients are solely responsible for any customary fees that are charged with respect to such deposit or other bank accounts. Finally, as set forth under the section "Credit Line Loans" below, SB&T compensates us in connection with Credit Line Loans that Clients hold at SB&T. Clients should therefore note that the Financial Advisor may have an incentive to recommend such Credit Line Loans and, as such, should carefully review the terms of any proposed Credit Line Loan prior to taking out any such Loan.

Limited Partnerships. Our firm may, directly or through an affiliate, act as general partner to various investment partnerships. These investment partnerships may be offered to brokerage clients, some of whom may also be Advisory Clients. With limited exceptions, Clients that invest in any such partnership are required to hold their limited partnership interests in their brokerage accounts. As such, these clients are not charged Advisory Fees with respect to the holdings, but may be charged transaction-specific brokerage commissions. As with other pooled investment vehicles, each such investment partnership charges its own fees and expenses. If for any reason an exception is granted for an Advisory Client to purchase and/or hold such partnership interests in their Advisory account, Stifel will charge a fee that may be separate and in addition to any fees charged by the underlying funds held in the account.

Stifel Nicolaus Insurance Agency, Incorporated. As set forth above, our firm is licensed as an insurance agency in a number of states and, as such, is able to sell insurance products to clients directly. However, in a few states, insurance products are sold through our affiliate, Stifel Nicolaus Insurance Agency, Incorporated. In such cases, the affiliate, and not our firm, will receive customary commissions paid by the insurance companies issuing Client policies. Financial Advisors who sell insurance products in such states typically are licensed as agents of the affiliate and will receive a portion of the insurance commissions paid.

Executive Tax Advisors, Inc. From time to time, this affiliate may provide tax services in conjunction with financial and wealth planning services or other Advisory services provided to certain Clients.

Each Client should note that each relationship set forth above creates a conflict of interest for our firm and/or Financial Advisors. Our firm acts as a fiduciary with respect to all Advisory services. As a fiduciary, we take reasonable steps to ensure that all material conflicts are fully disclosed to our Clients.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS, AND PERSONAL TRADING

Code of Ethics

In addition to our general Financial Code of Ethics, which is applicable to all Stifel personnel, our Advisory personnel are also subject to our Investment Advisory Code of Ethics ("IA Code of Ethics"). A copy of the IA Code of Ethics is available upon request. Set forth in the IA Code of Ethics are standards reasonably designed to promote honest and ethical conduct, comply with federal securities laws and governmental rules and regulations, maintain privacy of Client information, protect nonpublic information, and encourage associates to report any known violations. Such standards include placing Client interests first, avoiding any material or potential conflicts of interest, and ensuring that personal securities transactions are conducted appropriately. Compliance periodically reviews the IA Code of Ethics to ensure adequacy and effectiveness in complying with applicable regulations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

Advisory transactions are typically executed on an agency basis. However, our firm may trade with Clients and seek to earn a profit for its own account (such trades generally are referred to as "principal transactions"). Principal transactions are executed at prices and commission rates which we believe are competitive and in accordance with industry practice. Although we may be able to provide a more favorable price to a Client if we purchase from or sell to our inventory of securities, we generally are not able to engage in such transactions with Advisory Clients due to regulatory requirements, which require written disclosure and prior written consent on a trade-by-trade basis. However, if the account is managed by an Independent Adviser who is directing the trade, we may, as broker, trade from our inventory without having to obtain written Client consent for the transaction. In addition, we typically do not permit Advisory accounts to participate in syndicated offerings where our firm is a member of the underwriting syndicate or selling group.

We typically do not execute agency cross transactions in Select Program accounts; however, to the extent that any such transaction is effected in a Client's Select Program account, we will make all necessary disclosures to the affected Clients and obtain prior written consent. We generally do not affect agency cross transactions between Select Program Clients if we have recommended the security to both Clients. Notwithstanding the foregoing, we will not seek to obtain Client consent in cases where, consistent with applicable laws, a third-party Adviser is directing the transaction and, therefore, our firm (or representatives) did not recommend or otherwise direct the trade.

Certain of our Financial Advisors may recommend securities of issuers that our firm has otherwise sponsored or promoted (including initial public offerings and other syndicated offerings). Client transactions in such offerings are required to be effected in brokerage accounts, not Advisory accounts. Clients who participate in such transactions should note, therefore, that neither Stifel nor the Financial Advisor is, in any way, acting as a fiduciary with respect to any such transactions. As associated persons of a registered broker-dealer, our Financial Advisors are generally prohibited from participating in these offerings. However, some of our affiliates may, for their own accounts or for accounts of their clients, take substantial positions in such securities. In such cases, the affiliate may indirectly benefit from our Financial Advisor's investment recommendations if (for example) the later purchase by our Client accounts of the securities causes the price of those securities to rise. In general, neither Stifel nor our affiliates share information relating to investments made for Client accounts. To the extent that associated persons obtain information relating to investments by Stifel and/or an affiliate, such associated persons are prohibited from (i) passing such information to any other person who does not need to know the information in order to perform required duties, and (ii) using such information to benefit a Financial Advisor or Client.

Our officers and/or employees (including our Financial Advisors) may serve on the boards of companies in Clients' portfolios. In addition, our firm or affiliates may provide services to such portfolio companies. The portfolio companies may compensate us (or our affiliates) for their services with options to purchase stock or other equity interests of the portfolio companies. If an affiliate owns options or other securities issued by portfolio companies, a conflict of interest may arise between the timing of any exercise or sale of these options, and our decisions about the same portfolio securities for Client accounts.

Our firm, Financial Advisors, and affiliates frequently have access to non-public information about publicly traded companies. When this occurs, our Financial Advisors (and therefore, their Client accounts) may be prohibited from trading an existing position at a time that would be beneficial to such Clients, resulting in investment losses or the failure to achieve investment gains. In other cases, we may purchase or sell the securities of an issuer at a time when an affiliate or its employees have material non-information about such securities or their issuers if the affiliates have not otherwise notified us of their possession of such information. Our affiliates and their respective employees have no duty to make any such information available to us, and we have no duty to obtain such information from the affiliates.

Personal Trading

Our employees and affiliates may invest in any Select Program that we offer. Our written supervisory procedures are designed to detect and prevent the misuse of material, non-public information by employees. Our firm and affiliates, directors, officers, stockholders, employees, and members of their families may have positions in and, from time to time, buy or sell securities that we recommend to Select Program Clients. We prohibit transactions in our firm account(s) and accounts of associated persons in any security that is the subject of a recommendation of our Research department until the recommendation has been disseminated to Clients and a reasonable time has elapsed following the dissemination. Our directors, officers, and employees are prohibited from buying or selling securities for their personal accounts if the decision to do so is substantially derived, in whole or in part, by reason of their employment, unless the information is also available to the investing public or through reasonable inquiry. We maintain and regularly review securities holdings in the accounts of persons who may have access to Advisory recommendations.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

About Our Broker-Dealer

Our firm's principal business in terms of revenue and personnel is that of a securities broker-dealer. As a broker-dealer, we execute securities transactions per client instructions. As an integral part of the services offered, when providing brokerage services, Financial Advisors may assist clients in identifying investment goals, creating strategies that are reasonably designed to meet those goals, and making suitable buy, hold, and sell recommendations based on risk tolerance and financial circumstances. However, Financial Advisors do not provide investment advice, make investment decisions on behalf of clients and do not charge any fees for any incidental advice given when providing brokerage services. Absent special circumstances, Financial Advisors are not held to fiduciary standards when providing brokerage services. Legal obligations to disclose detailed information about the nature and scope of our business, personnel, commissions charged, material or potential conflicts of interests, and other matters, are limited when acting as a broker-dealer.

Our Responsibilities as a Broker-Dealer

As a broker-dealer, Stifel is held to the legal standards of the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, FINRA rules, and state laws where applicable. Such standards include fair dealings with Clients, reasonable and fair execution prices in light of prevailing market conditions, reasonable commissions and other charges, and reasonable basis for believing that securities recommendations are suitable.

Brokerage clients pay commission charges on a per transaction basis for securities execution services in their brokerage accounts. As set forth elsewhere in this brochure, with limited exceptions, Advisory clients enrolled in the Programs above generally pay a wrap fee that covers Stifel's custodial, execution, and administrative services, as well as other applicable advisory and portfolio management services by Advisers. See "Fees and Compensation" for more details about the wrap fee.

Execution of Transactions

Select Funds, Select APM Program and Select Advisors Programs. We typically self-execute transactions for Client accounts in the Select Funds, Select APM and Select Advisors Programs held at our firm, subject to our best execution obligations under applicable regulations.

As set forth above, an Investment Manager or Envestnet may effect transactions through our firm in our capacity as a broker-dealer, or may effect transactions through other broker-dealers when Envestnet or an Investment Manager believes, in their sole discretion, that such broker-dealer may provide better execution than would be the case if Stifel executed the transaction, pursuant to applicable regulations. Such regulations generally require Envestnet and each Investment Manager to take into account and consider, when determining an execution venue for Client trades, the execution costs (if any) that participating Clients will incur in connection with the proposed trade as well as speed and certainty of execution, price and size improvement, and overall execution quality. As set forth above, the executing broker for a step-out trade may impose a commission or a markup or markdown (that is, the execution costs are embedded in the price of the security) on the trade, while in other cases, a step-out trade may be executed without any additional execution costs. If additional execution costs (whether as a commission or markup or markdown) are incurred, the Client will be responsible for such execution costs in addition to the Advisory Account Fees.

We maintain a list of Investment Managers that have informed Stifel that they traded away from Stifel during the prior year; the list is typically updated no later than the end of April in the following year. The information provided is based solely upon the information provided to Stifel by each such Investment Manager; Stifel has not independently verified the information, and as a result, neither Stifel nor any of its associates can make any representations as to the accuracy of any such information. Clients may request a copy of the list at any time, without charge, from the Financial Advisor(s).

Clients should note that Stifel does not monitor, review, or evaluate whether an Investment Manager or Envestnet is complying with its best execution obligations to Stifel Clients; it is the sole responsibility of Investment Managers and Envestnet to meet best execution obligations for Clients. Each Client should therefore review, as applicable, the Investment Manager's, or Envestnet's Form ADV Part 2A Brochure, inquire about the Investment Manager's or Envestnet's trading practices, and consider that information carefully before selecting an Investment Manager. In particular, the Client should carefully consider any additional trading costs the Client may incur in selecting a new Investment Manager or choosing to stay invested with their current Investment Manager.

Orders for most Advisory Programs are routed for agency execution. Where permissible by applicable law (for example, in our Select Managers Program where a third-party Adviser acting as Investment Manager is directing the trade), we may act as broker for the transaction and, at the same time, purchase and/or sell securities for a Client transaction from our inventory. Consistent with applicable regulations, such inventory trades are not considered “principal transactions” to the extent that an Investment Manager or Envestnet (not Stifel) determines that purchasing the securities from Stifel inventory is in the underlying Clients’ best interest.

On the execution end, Advisory Client orders are generally treated with the same priority and procedural flow as non-advisory brokerage trades (except, such orders are not routed to our market makers and may be done as a block order, which may have different rules and priorities). We generally use automated systems to route and execute orders for the purchase and sale of securities for most Advisory accounts, unless directed by Clients to do otherwise. We use a reasonable diligence to ascertain the best markets for a surety and to buy and sell in such markets so that the resultant price to the customer is as favorable as possible under prevailing market conditions. Certain large orders that require special handling may be routed to a market center for execution via telephone or other electronic means. We regularly monitor existing and potential execution venues and may route orders in exchange-listed or over-the-counter (“OTC”) securities to other venues if it is believed that such routing is consistent with best execution principles. For equity securities, we monitor the performance of competing market centers and generally route orders to those that consistently complete transactions timely and at a reasonable cost and which normally execute at the national best bid or offer. Whenever possible, orders are routed to market centers that offer opportunities for price improvement through automated systems. We execute load-waived mutual fund transactions through traditional omnibus vendors, or through clearing arrangements with other brokerage firms under so-called super-omnibus arrangements.

Aggregation of Trades in Advisory Portfolios

To the extent possible, and in order to seek a more advantageous trade price, we may (but are not required to) aggregate orders for the purchase of a security for the Accounts of several Program Clients for execution in a single transaction (“block trades”). However, Clients in our Select APM Program should be aware that we do not require our Select APM Program Financial Advisors to aggregate orders for Client accounts into block trades. As a result, Clients invested in the same Select APM Program Portfolio or Strategy may receive different execution prices even when trading in the same security on the same day. When used, block trading generally allows us to execute equity trades in a timely, equitable manner. The related transaction costs are shared equally at an average price per share and on a pro rata basis between all accounts included in the block trade. Orders that cannot be filled in the same block trade or at the same average price are assigned to accounts in a manner that ensures no bias towards any Client. This practice does not ordinarily affect or otherwise reduce fees, commissions, or other costs charged to Clients for these transactions, but may provide price improvement. A partial fill of a block trade may be allocated among Client accounts randomly, pro rata, or by some other equitable procedure. In certain cases, third-party Advisers may use computer systems that allocate purchase and sale transactions either on a random or pro rata basis. In any case, Clients may pay higher or lower prices for securities than may otherwise have been obtained.

In connection with the handling of block orders, our firm may engage in hedging, offsetting, liquidating, facilitating, or positioning transactions (“risk-mitigating transactions”) that may occur at the same time or in advance of a Client order, and these activities may have impact on market prices. Beyond these risk-mitigating transactions, our firm and/or affiliates will refrain from any conduct that could disadvantage or harm the execution of Client orders or that would place our financial interests ahead of Clients.

Unless we are informed in writing (“opt out”), we will conclude that Clients understand that we may engage in risk-mitigating transactions in connection with Client orders and will conclude that Clients have given us (including our affiliates) consent to handle block transactions as described above. Clients can contact their Financial Advisor for instructions on how to opt out.

Directed Brokerage

Unless agreed upon otherwise, we execute all Advisory transactions through our firm. Some third-party Advisers may require Clients to direct brokerage. When Clients direct brokerage away from Stifel, it generally will result in higher costs. The fee for Advisory services does not cover, and Clients are responsible for, brokerage commissions, markups, markdowns, and/or other costs associated with transactions effected through or with third-party broker-dealer firms.

Payment for Order Flow

Payment for order flow is defined as any monetary payment, service, property, or benefit that results from remuneration, compensation, or consideration to a broker-dealer from another broker-dealer in return for routing customer orders to that broker-dealer. Orders may be routed to electronic communication networks (“ECNs”) or similar enterprises in which we or some of our affiliates may have a minority ownership interest if it is determined to be in the best interest of Clients and consistent with our obligations under applicable law. We and/or our affiliates have ownership interests in ECNs and, as such, may receive indirect compensation from the ECNs if orders for Advisory Programs are directed to such trading networks. Clients do not pay additional fees directly to us for such arrangements, but our firm and/or our affiliates may receive cash payments from certain market centers in exchange for routing orders.

Trade Error Correction

It is our firm’s policy that if there is a trade error for which we, our vendor, and/or a third-party Adviser is responsible, trades will be adjusted or reversed as needed in order to put the Client’s account in the position that it would have been in if the error had not occurred. Errors will be corrected at no cost to Client’s account, with the Client’s account not recognizing any loss from the error. The Client’s account will be fully compensated for any losses incurred as a result of an error. If the trade error results in a gain, our firm typically retains the gain.

We offer many services and, from time to time, may have other Clients in other Programs trading in opposition to Clients’ accounts. To avoid favoring one Client over another Client, we attempt to use objective market data in the correction of any trading errors.

Research and Other Benefits

Financial Advisors and Clients have access to research published by our firm’s research analysts (“Stifel Research”), the primary source of our research. Subject to certain exceptions, we incorporate the insights and economic perspectives of Stifel Research, where appropriate, into our products and services. Clients should be aware that our firm may have conflicts of interest in connection with research reports published. Stifel and other affiliates may have long or short positions, or deal as principal or agent, in relevant securities, or may provide Advisory or other services to issuers of relevant securities or to companies connected with issuers covered in research reports issued by Stifel Research. Our research analysts’ compensation is not based on investment banking revenues; however, their compensation may relate to revenues or profitability of Stifel business groups as a whole, which may include investment banking, sales, and trading services. Financial Advisors also have access to proprietary models covering equities, fixed income, mutual funds, and municipal securities developed by our firm's various business areas.

Our firm may also use research obtained from other financial institutions, including our affiliate, KBW, as well as from other affiliated or unaffiliated broker-dealers and/or investment advisers. In general, we seek third-party research that is in-depth fundamental corporate research to assist in providing Advisory services to Clients. This includes information in the form of written and oral reports, reports accessed by computers or terminals, statistic collations, appraisals, and analyses relating to markets, companies, industries, business and economic factors, market trends, portfolio strategy, and trading insight and intelligence. Materials of a general nature that deal with technical factors, the business cycle, and the economy are also regarded as having value. Our firm generally pays for independent third-party research. However, our firm has also entered into arrangements with third-party sources whereby such sources provide certain research services for free, generally in return for recommending their investment products (or investment products of their affiliates) to Clients. Clients should be aware that our receipt of such research services may present a conflict of interest by creating an incentive for our firm and/or Financial Advisors to recommend the investment products offered by such research firms (or by their affiliates). Our personnel generally do not recommend products based on the value of research services received directly from the research provider or their affiliates. Research services are generally used to benefit all Client accounts, whether or not such research was generated by the applicable Client account. However, not all research services will be used for all Client accounts. The type of research used with respect to any one account will depend on, among other things, the types of investments that are deemed suitable for the account.

Finally, some of our Financial Advisors may also obtain research from other independent sources. Generally such research is publicly available and the Financial Advisors do not pay extra to receive such research. However, in certain cases, Financial Advisors may pay for third-party research which may be used in connection with services provided to Client accounts. In general, Stifel does not use any such financial institution in connection with trade executions in Client accounts.

Margin

Clients may choose to employ margin strategies in eligible non-retirement accounts held at Stifel. The use of leverage, or investing with borrowed funds, is generally not recommended or permitted in the Select Programs; however, it may be approved on a limited exception basis when specifically requested by individual Clients, or for use in specialized strategies. Certain eligibility requirements must be met and documentation in the form of a separate margin agreement must be completed prior to using leverage in Advisory accounts. Only Clients can authorize the use of leverage in a Select Program account (that is, neither our firm nor our Financial Advisors can use discretion to set up a margin arrangement or privileges for a Client's Select Program account). In making the decision to authorize margin privileges for their Advisory account, it is important Clients understand the risks associated with employing margin strategies, the impact the use of borrowed funds may have on a Select Program account, and how investment objectives may be negatively affected. Employing margin in Select Program accounts is a more aggressive, higher risk approach to pursuing investment objectives. Clients should carefully consider whether the additional risks are appropriate prior to employing margin strategies due to the increased potential for significantly greater losses associated with using margin strategies. The use of margin also involves higher costs; Clients pay interest to our firm on the outstanding loan balance of their original margin loan. Furthermore, fees are calculated as a percentage of total assets in the account; therefore, employing margin strategies to buy securities in Select Program accounts generally increases the amount of, but not the percentage of, fees. This results in additional compensation to us. The amount of the margin loan is not deducted from the total value of the investments when determining account value for purposes of calculating the Advisory Account

Fees. As a result, Clients may lose more than their original investments. Likewise, a positive or negative performance, net of interest charges and fees, is magnified. Gains or losses are greater than would be the case in accounts that do not employ margin strategies. Clients generally will not benefit from employing margin strategies if the performance of individual accounts does not exceed interest expenses on the loan plus fees incurred as a result of depositing the proceeds of the loan.

Credit Lines

Clients may use assets in Select Program accounts held at Stifel to collateralize non-purpose loans ("Credit Line Loans"). Clients may apply for Credit Line Loans from our affiliate, SB&T, using eligible securities accounts, including eligible Select Program accounts, as collateral. The proceeds of such loans may not be used to trade or carry securities, repay debt that was used to trade or carry securities, or repay debt to any affiliate of SB&T. If Select Program accounts are used to collateralize Credit Line Loans, the accounts are pledged to support any Credit Line Loans extended, margin strategies are automatically discontinued, and Clients are not permitted to withdraw funds unless sufficient amounts of collateral remain to continue supporting the Credit Line Loans (as determined by SB&T in its sole discretion). Clients pay interest to SB&T on Credit Line Loans at customary rates. Certain eligibility requirements must be met and loan documentation must be completed prior to applying for Credit Line Loans.

Defaults

Credit Line Loans extended by SB&T are demand loans and subject to collateral maintenance requirements. SB&T may demand repayment at any time. If the required collateral value is not maintained, SB&T may require additional collateral, partial or entire repayment of any Credit Line Loans extended, and/or sale of securities to satisfy collateral maintenance requirements. Clients who employ margin strategies in their accounts may need to deposit additional cash or collateral or repay a partial or entire amount of the funds borrowed if the value of their portfolio declines below the required loan-to-value ratio. Failure to promptly meet requests for additional collateral or repayment, or other circumstances including a rapidly declining market, may cause SB&T to instruct us to liquidate some or all of the collateral supporting any Credit Line Loan in order to meet collateral maintenance requirements. Depending on market circumstances, the prices obtained for the securities may be less than favorable. Any required liquidations may interrupt long-term investment strategies and may result in adverse tax consequences.

We (including your Financial Advisor) may have a financial incentive and a conflict of interest in connection with your decision to obtain a Credit Line Loan, insofar as we may earn compensation in connection with such Credit Line Loan. Specifically, SB&T may pay us an amount up to 0.25% on the outstanding principal balance of the Credit Line Loan. We use that amount, in whole or in part, to determine the Financial Advisor's production, which may affect his or her compensation.

Other Important Considerations Relating to the Use of Margin or Credit Line Loans in Connection with Select Program Accounts.

Neither our firm nor our Financial Advisors provide legal or tax advice. Clients should consult legal counsel and tax advisors before using borrowed funds as collateral for loans. Neither our firm nor our affiliates act as investment adviser with respect to the liquidation of securities held in Advisory accounts to meet margin calls or Credit Line Loan demands, and as creditors, our firm and our affiliates may have interests that are adverse to Clients. There are substantial risks associated with the use of borrowed funds for investment purposes and the use of securities as collateral for loans.

Additional limitations and availability may vary by state. For further information, please see the Stifel Loan Disclosure Statement, available upon request.

CASH SWEEP OPTIONS

We offer one or more sweep options for the available cash balances in Client accounts, depending on the type of account that a Client is establishing (i.e., retirement versus non-retirement). Clients should review the Sections “The Stifel Cash Investment Service,” and “Disclosure Documents for Automatic Cash Investment or Sweep Fund Choices,” of the brokerage account agreement and disclosure booklet (the “Brokerage Account Agreement”) for the terms, conditions, and other important information relating to the applicable sweep options, including a discussion of the various conflicts that we may have in connection with such options as well as how we seek to mitigate such conflicts. Clients may access the Brokerage Account Agreement, as amended from time to time, under the “Important Disclosures” section of www.stifel.com, or may request a copy from their Financial Advisor.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Account Review

Each new Select Program account is reviewed by the applicable Financial Advisor’s supervisor prior to account opening. Thereafter, Financial Advisors perform account reviews regularly.

Performance Information

We offer Clients in Select Programs the option of specifically requesting to receive quarterly analyses of their account’s performance relative to comparable market indices or other selected benchmarks. With respect to the performance reports which Clients have the option to receive, we use performance returns calculated by our primary performance system. Our primary system calculates total performance returns (after deduction of actual trading expenses) using a daily calculation methodology that adjusts for cash flows in the account as of the applicable date. In certain limited cases, we may calculate Client account performance using one of our secondary performance systems. Our secondary performance systems generally calculate performance returns using the Modified Dietz Method, which is a time-weighted method that also identifies and accounts for cash flows in the account. If the date of a cash flow is not known, we will assume a mid-month date for cash flows. Regardless of the system from which performance is calculated, our policies require our personnel to periodically review a sampling of the performance returns to confirm their accuracy or compliance with presentation standards.

We rely on publicly recorded information, use various vendor systems, and/or rely on valuations provided by third-party custodians holding assets and/or accounts that are part of a Client’s Advisory relationship with us in determining the values used in our performance reports. If Client accounts include privately issued alternative investments, we rely on values provided by the management, administrators, and sponsors of each such investment and may, as a result of delays in getting information from such parties, use estimated values in reporting the performance of such investments. Stifel does not independently verify any such valuations. The actual value, once determined, may differ from the estimates previously provided by the third party to Stifel and, therefore, used by Stifel in previous reports and calculations. Clients may, thus, not be able to realize the same value as shown for such assets upon a sale or redemption of the same. Each Client should also note that Stifel will not amend previously issued calculations or reports as a result of changes in the valuation figures provided by such third parties.

Clients may notice a difference in the ending market values displayed on the quarter-end custodial statements issued by our firm versus our performance reports for the same account. Performance reports generally include any income that is earned (accrued) but not yet posted to Client accounts. Custodial statements also include accrued income, but the calculation may not match the calculation used for performance reporting purposes. Clients should contact their Financial Advisors if they have any questions relating to figures shown on their performance reports.

Transaction Statements

Clients with discretionary accounts held at Stifel typically receive monthly (but in no event less than quarterly) statements that identify buys, sells, dividends, interest, deposits, and disbursements in their accounts during the previous month, as well as the overall market value of the portfolio at month’s end. A summary of portfolio holdings as of the end of each reported quarter is also listed. Clients may not waive receipt of account statements. Clients whose accounts are held away from Stifel, with a qualified custodian (but who trade through Stifel), will receive a statement with respect to each month in which a transaction is effected in their Stifel account. However, if no transactions are effected in accounts held away from Stifel, such Clients may receive their statements on a quarterly basis. All other clients utilizing an unaffiliated, third-party custodian will receive statements from their applicable custodian based on the custodian’s own delivery schedule.

Realized Gain/Loss Summary

Custodial statements from Stifel include annual listings of all closed transactions in their accounts during each calendar year, as well as the offsetting cost of each transaction and, thus, the realized gains/losses for each closing transaction.

Year-End Tax Report

With respect to those accounts for which our firms acts as custodian, we provide such Clients 1099 statements for the previous tax year. 1099 statements include both reportable and non-reportable information, cost basis for securities that have been sold, and additional information to assist with tax preparation.

Transaction Confirmations

Clients with discretionary accounts may elect to receive trade confirmations immediately upon execution in their accounts, or defer confirmations until the end of each quarter. Eligible Clients who elect to defer confirmations receive summary reports at the end of each quarter outlining the transactions posted to their accounts during the most recent calendar quarter. The election to receive confirmations immediately or quarterly may be changed at any time upon the Client’s written notice. Clients of non-discretionary programs are not eligible to defer confirmations. Clients that have signed up for online access to their Advisory accounts may review their transaction confirmations through the online portal.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

In general, we require that all solicitation or referral arrangements comply with applicable regulatory requirements, including, but not limited to, disclosures to Clients about the referral arrangement as well as any fees received (or paid) in connection with such referral at the time of the referral or execution of the Client agreement. We have policies and procedures designed to assure that proper disclosures are provided to Clients at the time of solicitation and/or account opening, as well as that all Clients sign appropriate disclosure delivery receipts. Each affected Client will receive disclosures from the applicable solicitor disclosing the solicitation arrangement, as well as the fee paid by Stifel to such solicitor (or received by Stifel) in respect of the solicitation.

Our firm may enter into solicitation arrangements with one or more of our Affiliated Advisers, for us to act as solicitor for the Affiliated Adviser and/or the Affiliated Adviser to act as solicitor for our firm. In either case, the solicited clients should be aware that our Financial Advisors may have an incentive to recommend Affiliated Advisers over Independent Advisers, as the Affiliated Adviser's receipt of additional revenues for portfolio management services not otherwise available with the Financial Advisor may have a positive impact on our affiliated group. Similarly, our Affiliated Adviser may have an incentive to recommend our firm over other financial institutions. As of the date of this brochure, our firm had entered into solicitation arrangements with the following Affiliated Advisers in which we have agreed to act as solicitor: Ziegler, Sagewood, and 1919 Investment Counsel. These arrangements generally do not relate to the Select Programs covered in this brochure.

In addition to the arrangements set forth above, our firm also participates in the following solicitation or referral arrangements applicable to our Advisory services covered in this brochure:

Stifel Alliance Program

Under the Stifel Alliance Program ("Alliance"), we may directly or indirectly compensate individuals or companies for Client referrals by sharing a portion of the fees charged by our firm. Our policies prohibit our Financial Advisors from up-charging any Client to make up for the portion paid to or otherwise expended in connection with an Alliance solicitor. We and/or our associated persons may pay for registration costs (if any) relating to the solicitor to facilitate the solicitor's state registration (if required). As a result, such solicitors may have incentive to refer clients to Stifel over other firms.

Compensation for Client Referrals

Our firm and/or Financial Advisors may be compensated by third-party advisers for client referrals to such third-party investment advisers, although generally such arrangements do not relate to the Select Programs covered in this brochure. If our firm enters into referral arrangements with third-party advisers, the compensation received in such arrangements may be based on a percentage of the total fees paid by each client to the third-party adviser for the period of time each client remains with the third-party adviser. In other cases, a third-party adviser may agree to use our trade execution and custodial services for all referred clients, and may also agree to open brokerage accounts for clients not introduced by us. By providing trade execution and custodial services to such Advisers, our firm and/or our Financial Advisors act in a brokerage capacity and may receive brokerage compensation. As such, Financial Advisors have an incentive to recommend third-party Advisers with whom the Financial Advisor and/or Stifel has a referral arrangement over those with no such arrangement. To the extent that such arrangements affect Clients' Advisory accounts, the Financial Advisor's brochure supplement generally will include a discussion of the applicable referral arrangements (if any).

As set forth above, our firm has entered into solicitation arrangements with certain of our Affiliated Advisers, pursuant to which we (or our Financial Advisors) receive compensation for referrals made to such Affiliated Advisers. In addition, our Financial Advisors also may receive nominal compensation for referring clients to our other affiliates including, but not limited to, our banking affiliates.

Other Compensation

As set forth above under "Fees and Compensation," we may receive Revenue Sharing from private fund sponsors or managers to whom we refer Clients for investments. We may similarly receive payments from mutual funds in which Clients invest. Clients should also refer to the "Brokerage Practices" section above for a discussion of research services that our firm may receive for recommending certain products to our Clients.

are designed to mitigate potential risks associated with acting as a custodian in an effort to ensure that our client's assets are protected. Among other things, we undergo a separate examination by an independent auditor, the purpose of which is to obtain the auditor's report on our internal controls designed to safeguard client's assets held at our firm. Our firm also undergoes an annual surprise audit by an independent registered accounting firm, which audit is designed to verify the Clients' assets. At the conclusion of the annual surprise audit, the independent auditor files a report with the SEC attesting to, among other things, our compliance with regulatory requirements.

Certain of our affiliates may also serve as qualified custodians of our Client assets. In such cases, consistent with applicable regulations, we generally receive a report issued by an independent registered public accountant relating to the affiliate's internal controls in connection with its custody services.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Clients with discretionary accounts in the Select Programs grant Stifel proxy voting authority over securities held in their Select Program accounts. Clients may revoke this grant of authority at any time upon written notice to us.

In voting proxies, we have a fiduciary responsibility to make investment decisions that are in the best interest of Clients and vote Client securities accordingly. As required by applicable regulations, we have adopted policies and procedures to govern the proxy voting process. Our policies provide that, in general, we will vote with management on routine issues, and will vote non-routine issues in a manner calculated and intended to maximize shareholder value. We have retained a third-party proxy voting service to provide independent, objective research and voting recommendations, and to vote proxies on our behalf. In the event of a conflict between our firm's interests and the interests of our Clients, we may decline to vote a proxy if the independent proxy voting service is unable to provide a voting recommendation and vote the securities on our behalf. In such cases, we generally will forward the proxies to the applicable Client for voting.

Clients may request a copy of our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures at any time, including a record of the proxies voted in respect of their account.

We do not provide any form of assistance in the proxy voting process to, nor do we accept proxy voting authority from, clients who receive account and/or advisory services on a non-discretionary basis. Such clients generally will receive proxy materials directly from the issuer's transfer agent, and are responsible for voting their own proxies.

For Clients with a Select Managers Program account, such third-party Advisers typically vote proxies held in Client accounts enrolled in their applicable Strategies, provided that the Client has elected to grant the third-party Adviser proxy voting authority. To the extent applicable, each Client enrolled in a Strategy managed directly by the third-party Adviser receives a copy of the Investment Manager's proxy voting policy as part of the account opening process. Clients should carefully review each such proxy voting policy to ensure a good understanding of the process and the related risks prior to granting proxy voting authority to the third-party Adviser.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Stifel does not have any adverse financial conditions to disclose under this Item.

CUSTODY

Unless agreed upon otherwise, we generally maintain custody of Client assets in the Select Programs. We have adopted policies and procedures that Discretionary Investment Management Services – We offer and provide discretionary ERISA fiduciary investment advisory services through the following Programs covered in this brochure: Select Funds, Select APM and Select Managers. Non-Discretionary Advisory Services – We also offer and provide non-discretionary investment advisory services through our non-discretionary Fundamentals Program and the Horizon Program, as detailed above. Non-discretionary investment advisory services are provided directly by your Financial Advisor.

More detailed information about these services and Programs is provided in, and each Plan Client should review, the section above entitled “Advisory Business.”

General Description of Compensation Paid to Stifel

Our firm accepts direct compensation in the form of fees paid pursuant to the Advisory agreement entered into with the Plan at the time of account opening. Plan Clients should refer to the applicable Advisory agreement for the fee calculation formula specific to the Plan account.

As set forth above under “Trade Error Correction,” our policy is to put a Client’s account in the position that it would have been in if an error had not occurred. As a result, to the extent a trade error results in a gain, Stifel will retain the resulting gain. Pursuant to applicable guidelines, such gains may be deemed additional compensation. We maintain a record of any losses and/or gains resulting from trade errors in any account and will provide such information to an account holder upon request.

Plan accounts that invest in ADRs may also incur pass-through-fees, which are typically charged by the sponsors of certain ADRs as custody-related expenses. When applicable, Stifel collects ADR pass-through fees from applicable Plan assets, then forwards all such ADR pass-through fees to the Depository Trust Company (or other applicable central securities depository).

Accounts Managed by third-party Advisers

Certain Plan accounts enrolled in our Select Managers Program may utilize the services of a third-party Adviser that is engaged to provide discretionary investment management services to the Plan (acting as “Investment Manager”). As the Investment Manager for the Plan, that Investment Manager is a fiduciary to the Plan for purposes of both the Advisers Act and ERISA. The Investment Manager’s direct compensation is bundled into the fee set forth in the applicable annual Select Program fee that Client pays with respect to the Select Managers Program account. An Investment Manager may also receive indirect compensation, often referred to as “soft dollars” or other benefits, from other brokerage firms with which the Investment Manager executes trades for Client accounts. These benefits may or may not relate to trades effected for the Plan account. Plan Clients may should refer to the applicable Investment Manager’s separate Rule 408(b)2 disclosure statement or Form ADV Part 2A for information about whether or not the Investment Manager receives soft dollars or similar benefits, and if so, the specific benefits received.
