

STIFEL

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING INVESTMENT MANAGER TRADE-AWAY PRACTICES

In evaluating an investment manager (each, an “Investment Manager”), Clients should review: (i) the information contained in this document, including any costs associated with trades executed away from Stifel during the period shown, and (ii) the Investment Manager’s Form ADV Part 2A Brochure. Clients should also ask their Financial Advisor about the Investment Manager’s trading-away practices before selecting, or while reviewing, a particular investment strategy.

Investment Managers Utilized in Stifel’s Programs That Include Separately Managed Accounts (“SMAs”) May Trade Away From Stifel

Investment Managers in Stifel’s Opportunity, Connect, and Investment Management Consulting Programs have discretion to effect trades on behalf of clients through broker-dealers other than Stifel. An Investment Manager may trade away if it determines, in its sole discretion, such trades would be in the best interests of its clients, such as to satisfy its best execution obligations.

Costs Associated With Trades Executed Away From Stifel Are Not Included in a Client’s Advisory Fees

As outlined in our investment advisory client account agreement, clients enrolled in our Opportunity and Investment Management Consulting Programs generally pay an annualized wrap fee that includes certain fees and charges for the services of the Investment Manager and Stifel, including costs related to transactions in client accounts effected through Stifel. Clients enrolled in our Connect Program who utilize an Investment Manager pay an advisory fee to Stifel as well as a separate advisory fee to the Investment Manager. However, for all transactions executed through other broker-dealers, clients will likely, but will not necessarily, incur additional costs, such as commissions or markups/markdowns embedded in the price of the security that are in addition to, and not included in, the advisory fee. As such, clients are separately responsible for any execution costs incurred in connection with such trades. These additional costs are not reflected on client account statements; however, if the Investment Manager has provided the appropriate information to Stifel regarding such additional costs, they may be indicated on client trade confirmations or on client quarterly transaction confirmation reports provided to those clients who have elected to suppress immediate trade confirmations.¹

General Information on Investment Managers’ Best Execution Obligations

Investment Managers are investment advisers that have a fiduciary obligation to act in the best interests of their advisory clients and are therefore required to seek to obtain “best execution” in effecting trades on behalf of such clients. Under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, “best execution” generally means executing transactions in a manner such that the client’s total cost or proceeds are the most favorable under the circumstances. Although it is important for Investment Managers to seek the best price for a security in the marketplace and minimize unnecessary brokerage costs in satisfying its obligations, these are not the only factors used to determine whether the Investment Manager has satisfied its obligations. It is not an obligation to get the lowest possible commission cost or to solicit competitive bids for each transaction, but rather, the Investment Manager should determine whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution for its clients. In selecting a broker-dealer, Investment Managers should consider the full range and quality of services offered by the broker-dealer, including the value of the research provided (if any), execution capability, commission rate charged, the broker-dealer’s financial responsibility, and its responsiveness. It is also important to note that Stifel does not monitor, review, or otherwise evaluate whether an Investment Manager is satisfying its best execution obligations to clients.

¹ All other information shown does not reflect any additional execution costs resulting from trades executed through other broker-dealers.

Additional information about an Investment Manager’s brokerage practices, including the factors that the Investment Manager considers in satisfying its best execution obligations, which may vary according to the type(s) of securities traded, is contained in each Investment Manager’s Form ADV Part 2A Brochure.

Types of Securities Traded

Investment Managers whose strategies consist primarily (or substantially) of fixed income securities, foreign securities (including American Depositary Receipts or ordinary shares), exchange traded funds, and/or small-cap securities are generally more likely to trade away from Stifel. This means that clients investing in such strategies are more likely to incur execution costs in addition to the fee paid to Stifel. Clients should, therefore, take these costs into consideration when selecting and/or deciding to remain invested in the affected strategies.

Trade Aggregation

Investment Managers typically manage wrap client accounts for multiple firms using the same strategy, and may also manage other directly sourced accounts side-by-side with wrap client accounts. In certain cases, an Investment Manager may decide to aggregate all client transactions into a block trade that is executed through one broker-dealer, rather than separately through each participating firm (such as Stifel). Aggregating transactions into a single block may enable the Investment Manager to obtain a better price or additional investment opportunities for its clients, as well as allow the Investment Manager to exercise more control over the execution, including (for example) potentially avoiding an adverse effect on the price of a security that could result from simultaneously placing a number of separate, successive, and/or competing client orders.

Investment Managers' Historical Trading Away Practices

A list of Investment Managers with trading discretion over client accounts that have notified Stifel that they traded away from Stifel during the previous calendar year is attached. This list includes the names of the applicable strategies, information about the trade-away practices of the Investment Manager for a particular strategy, and the average associated costs (if any) during the previous calendar year. The information contained in this list is based solely upon information provided to Stifel by each Investment Manager and has not been independently verified by Stifel. As a result, Stifel does not make any representations as to the accuracy of the information.

The information in the attached list regarding an Investment Manager's prior trade-away practices is not a guarantee that such Investment Manager will exercise or repeat the same practices in the future, in general, and/or with the same frequency. It is possible that Investment Managers could trade away more or less frequently, or at a higher or lower commission rate, fee, or other expenses, resulting in greater or lesser costs than those indicated. Individual clients enrolled in the strategies noted may experience different results. Similarly, it is possible that Investment Managers that have not previously, or recently, traded away from Stifel will do so in the future.

Opportunity Program – Manager Comments

¹ Cents per share represents cost for transactions executed in the U.S. and Canada; 13.32 basis points is the approximate cost for transactions executed in any other market.

² For more information on Hamlin's cross transaction practices, including how ticket charges to clients are incurred, please refer to their most recent ADV Part 2 Brochure at the following website: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/119278>.

³ Execution costs only apply to accounts funded with positins that require liquidation by Laffer. Laffer may liquidate such position through outside brokers when determined, in Laffer's sole discretion, to be appropriate.

⁴ The associated costs typically range from $0.10 to $10 per bond, with the higher fee rate of $10 per bond usually reserved for infrequent instances where very small lot sizes are being traded (e.g. fewer than five bonds).

⁵ No additional trading costs for primary market trades. For secondary market trades, dealer trading mark-ups typically range from 1-10 basis points per bond depending on several factors: position size, market strength/weakness, and holding period among others.
